HUGHES STREAKS TOWARD ALASKA

The News Is Good!

While their husbands roar around the world in a speedy monoplane, the three women shown above listen to radio accounts of their progress—and up to now the news has been good. At the top is Mrs. Mary Stoddart, wife of the radio engineer aboard Howard Hughes' round-the-world plane, as she listens to radio reports of the plane's progress. There's a reason for her smile—her husband is getting closer and closer to home. Bottom picture shows Mrs Harry Conner, left, and Mrs Thomas Thurlow, with her son, right, wives of Hughes' two navigators They don't seem to find anything to worry about in the radio reports, either.

VICTORY-MAD CLERK SHOOTS HIS 'RIBBERS'

Ardent Brooklyn Follower Celebrates in Bar Room, Shootings Follow.

ARGUES MERITS OF TEAM

18 Beers Help, but He Can't Convert Giant Fans Who Josh at First Loss.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — A baseball fan who couldn't take it killed one man and wounded another early today. Their offense: They had made remarks reflecting on the professional integrity of certain members of the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National league.

The tragedy occurred in a Brooklyn bar room. The slayer was Robert Joyce, 33, a postoffice clerk.

The victims were Frank Harvey Krug, a clerk in one of the state offices at Albany, N. Y who was killed by two bullets through the heart, and William J. Diamond, the bartender, who was critically wounded and probably will die.

Chortles Over Triumph.

The trouble started soon after yesterday's game in which the Brooklyn Dodgers, Joyce's favorite team, won a long-sought victory from the New York Giants, their arch foes in the National league. The score was 13-5. The Dodgers, reaching their stride after having taken 10 beatings from the Giants this season, were magnificent in victory and Joyce went to the bar room to chortle

As nearly anybody could remember, Joyce started the argument by asking what everybody thought of the Dodgers now. He grew more voluble while consuming 18 glasses of beer, but he hadn't converted any Giants' fans to the Dodgers' cause. By 11 o'clock everybody was ribbing him, so he arose from his stool, announcing that he was "going out and get two guns and shoot up this place," and walked out, reeling.

Pulls Revolver.

Two hours later, Joyce returned. There were a dozen men in the place. Joyce stepped to the bar, pulled a revolver from his pocket and shot Diamond.

Several men pounced upon him and bore him to the floor. Joyce wriggled free, arose and took another revolver from his pocket.

Ignoring the others, he forced these two into a back room Eagan darted into a telephone booth. Krug was trying to crowd in with him, when Joyce began firing again Two bullets pierced Krug's heart.

Set Aside Aug. 3---It's Soap Box Derby Day

Put a big circle around the Aug. 3 date on your calendar.

That Wednesday is going to be a "red letter" day in Mansfield . . . the day The News-Journal Soap Box Derby will be run off.

While August may seem like a long way off, Derby day is actually only three weeks away.

Three weeks isn't a whole lot of time, and those boys who have not yet entered the racing classic will have to work double time to get their mounts in shape for the big race, which last year attracted more than 15,000 spectators.

The date of the race was tentatively set for Wednesday, July 27, but was changed so as not to conflict with the Richland county fair which opens on that day.

This year's contest will be staged on the Sturges avenue hill, located between Glessner and Cline avenues, the same course that was used last summer.

Entries for the race, which is being staged by The News-Journal in co-operation with the Mohican Chevrolet company and Y. M. C. A., will close in the near future.

Youngsters between the ages of nine and 15 planning to compete in the thrilling race are urged to enter immediately.

Registration blanks may be obtained at the Mohican Chevrolet company and Y. M. C. A. Plans on how to build a car and other important details will be provided on registration.

There is no cost to enter or compete. Only boys in Mansfield and Richland county are eligible.

FARMERS FACE HEAVY LOSS IN WHEAT REVENUE

Lower Prices, Reduced Acreage Cut Income From 35 to 50 Per Cent This Year.

With wheat prices down almost a half from last year and wheat acreage reduced in compliance with the federal crop program, Richland county farmers face a reduction of from 35 to 50 per cent in their revenue from the crop they are harvesting this season, figures showed today.

Adding to the farmers' woe is a lighter yield than was anticipated, due to frost damage late in the spring. Although the average yield in the county is expected to be about 15 bushels per acre, approximately the normal production over a 10-year period, farmers in the northern part of the county are predicting a half-crop.

See 60-Cent Wheat.

Despite the federal crop reduction plan, designed to improve the land and stabilize prices, predictions are that wheat will sell for about 60 cents a bushel this year, while in 1937 the price ranged from $1 to $1.20.

Although a record crop, with the yield ranging up to 40 bushels per acre, is forecast for central Ohio, a number of Richland county growers are pessimistic about their yields.

A. C. Fackler, Jackson township, one of the leading wheat growers in the northern half of the county, said his 60 acres would average about 15 bushels per acre.

"That's only about a half crop", he said. "Some of the fields will produce as much as 25 bushels an acre, but others won't yield more than 10 bushels."

Roy Kirkpatrick, another Jackson township farmer, said his average yield on 18 acres would be about 15 bushels per acre, less than last year's crop.

"Straw is in better shape this year, but late frosts damaged the grain and the heads are short and contain fewer kernels," he added.

Farmers in the southern half of the county were more optimistic ,asserting that their crop will be "about average."

Henry Bachus, Monroe township, expects to thresh from 15 to 25 bushels per acre from his farm, but added that the lower price will cut his income below last year's figure.

Wheat to be cut with binders is virtually all in the shock and threshing will begin by the end of this week, farmers said.

"Wheat yields throughout the state will be about 19 bushels per acre, about the average for the past 10 years," Elmer S. Kruse, chairman of the state agricultural conservation committee, said at Columbus.

The best yield reported so far is 40 bushels per acre in Marion county, Kruse said. He expected the harvest in the state to be completed by Aug. 1.

Fist Swinger Throws Dem Rally In Uproar

Metzenbaum's Foe Puts Up Dukes During Digs At Davey Regime.

(By International News Service)

FREMONT — Sandusky county Democrats today swept up the embers of a box of political fireworks that exploded and came close to disrupting a party rally and ox roast here

The chief speakers on the program, Governor Davey, former Senator James Metzenbaum, of Cleveland, and Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, pulled no verbal punches. In addition, the rally came close to seeing physical combat.

Metzenbaum, candidate for lieutenant governor, drew a fist-swinging attack from Harry J. Halper, of Akron, another candidate for the office, when Metzenbaum charged that a "horde of shakedown artists moved into Columbus on the heels of Davey."

Halper, appointed to the housing administration by Davey, rushed at Metzenbaum, pushed him from the microphone, and swung at him. His blows did not

PICKS NAME FOR NEW SCHOOL AS DRIVE STARTS

School Board Chooses 'Johnny Appleseed'—Campaign for Bonds Under Way.

Selecting the name "Johnny Appleseed Junior high school" for the proposed new school building at Cline avenue and Wood street, the Mansfield board of education and P. T. A. groups last night laid the groundwork for a vigorous campaign to obtain approval of a $550,000 bond issue at the August primary.

Nearly 80 P. T. A. committee members, school officials and representatives of civic organizations set up the campaign program at a session in the Chamber of Commerce rooms after hearing of the need for added school facilities in the city.

The name for the proposed building was chosen by the school board which expressed the belief it would be helpful to the building plan to have at least an emblem to indicate what the board is working for.

Start Drive at Once.

The campaign in behalf of the building plan will be launched immediately and will be carried to every home in the city, it was decided last night. As a climax to the drive, the city's school children will march in a parade through the city Aug. 5, carrying banners promoting the bond issue. Patrolman Frend C. Boals was named chairman of the parade committee.

Meanwhile, P. T. A. organizations will hold special meetings at which school board members or Supt. W. L. Miller will outline the building program.

The first of the series of P. T. A. meetings will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at the West Fifth street school Speakers will be Supt. Miller, H. W. Arlin, president of the school board; Mrs. F. D. Boals, president of the P. T. A. council, and Rev. Grover Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church.

'All's Well,' Fliers Report as Globe-Girdling Plane Roars on to Goal.

FOG BLANKET AHEAD

Hazardous Flying Looms In Region of Nome; Records Continue to Fall.

(By International News Service)

YAKUTSK, Siberia—Roaring in and out of ancient Yakutsk like the wind from the steppes, Howard Hughes and his four globe-circling companions streaked into the fifth leg of their round-the-world flight today.

The fliers reached here from Omsk at 4:08 a. m. (EST) and hopped off for Fairbanks, Alaska, 2,456 miles away, less than three hours later. It was 7:01 a. m. (EST) when the giant plane started out on the hop that will take the record-breakers back into the western hemisphere.

N. Y. by Late Tomorrow.

(The plane was 275 miles east of Yakutsk at 8:22 o'clock (EST) this morning, according to advices received at the world's fair flight headquarters at New York.)

(At 8:45 a. m. and again at 10:05 a. m. (EST) Hughes' plane was contacted by Perrine's amateur radio station at Hermosa, Cal. The flyer reported, "All's well.")

So far, thanks to Hughes' careful preparations, and closest checking at every stopping point, nothing has gone radically wrong with his "flying laboratory." Maintaining an average of 200 miles an hour, he would wing over the skyscrapers of Manhattan sometime late Thursday.

The weather between Yakutsk and Anadir, on the northeastern coast of Siberia, was good, but fog and rain was reported over the Bering sea between Anadir and Nome, Alaska, one of the most perilous stages of the journey. At Fairbanks itself, however, conditions were expected to be good.

For their well-wishers here, Hughes and his compaions had virtually the entire population of native traders whose ancestors saw slow caravans weave in and out of Yakutsk for centuries.

10-Hour Hop.

Flying at 13,000 to 16,000 feet, high above blasts of icy winds from the Arctic and chill rain squalls, the American aviators made the 2,117-mile journey from Omsk, the fourth hop of their six-

Thomas, Roosevelt's 'Good Friend', Wins

(By United Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY—Senator Elmer Thomas, New Deal liberal, whom President Roosevelt called his "good friend" during his cross-country tour here Saturday, held a commanding lead over two opponents in his campaign for renomination today, with more than half the votes from yesterday's primary tabulated.

Thomas took an early lead over his closest rival, Rep. Gomer Smith, and held it throughout the night. Gov. E. W. Marland, also running on a New Deal platform, was third, far behind Thomas and Smith.

Returns from 2,487 precincts of 3,522 gave for U. S. senator: Marland 73,544; Thomas 158,379; Gomer Smith 118,321; Charles F. Smith 2,141.

Murray Trailing.

William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray was third in the race for governor. He trailed W. S Key, former state WPA administrator, and Leon C. Phillips.

Returns from 2,551 precincts gave Phillips 119,803; Kep 111,607, Murray 99,388.

In the Republican primary the candidates endorsed by the Republican state convention appeared certain of winning the nominations for governor and senator. Ross Rizley was the state convention's candidate for governor, and Harry Glasser was the group's candidate for senator.

SPEAKS 3 TIMES

ABOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S SPECIAL TRAIN, EN ROUTE TO SAN FRANCISCO—(U P)—President Roosevelt, nearing the end of his trans-continental tour in behalf of "liberal" candidates, will make three appearances today in Nevada where Senator Pat McCarran is seeking reelection.

McCarran has been one of the leading anti-administration Democrats in the senate. It was not expected that Mr. Roosevelt would mention McCarran as one of the "forward looking" senators whom he would prefer to have in Washington

All of Mr Roosevelt's addresses in Nevada will be made from the rear platform of his train.

DIES TONIGHT

Kidnap-Killer of Ross Spends Last Day Watching Ponies.

CHICAGO—(INS)—John Henry Seadlund, doomed to die in the electric chair shortly after midnight tonight for the kidnap-murder of Charles Ross, wealthy Chicago manufacturer, was spending his last hours of earth today making imaginary bets on horse races —unmindful that it was betting that betrayed him to G-men.

Seadlund, arrested Jan. 14, at the betting window of the Santa Anita race track in California as he tried to wager some of the $50,000 ransom, placed imaginary 50-cent bets ever day, it was disclosed. If he picks the right horses, he is gleeful.

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Deha Seadlund, of Ironton, Minn., Seadlund wrote: "Mother, I'm anxious for that harp." He also wrote he would be glad to join in heaven his father and his dog.

TALKS AGAIN

Firemen Give First Aid, Pry Open Woman's Locked Jaws.

ALTON, Ill —(AP)—Firemen were called on to meet a new emergency when a young woman stopped her automobile in front of a fire station and motioned that her jaws had become locked

The fire fighters didn't hesitate. They inserted a pencil between the woman's teeth, applied pressure to joints of the jawbones—and opened her jaws She thanked them and drove away.

HEAT BREAKS UP

Rain Due Tonight, Thursday to Be Fair, Cooler.

Despite the weatherman's prediction yesterday that today would be "warmer" the six-day heat wave appeared to be broken so far as Mansfield was concerned, and the forecast predicted rain and cooler weather for tonight and tomorrow.

Observer Otto Sprunger reported a noon reading of 83, five degrees under yesterday's high of 88, and the forecast said there would be thundershowers tonight and generally fair and cooler weather tomorrow. Skies were overcast today.

Last night's low was 61 and the average for 24 hours was less than a degree above normal.

SURROUND PLANT

200 Pickets on Duty In Portsmouth Shoe Strike.

PORTSMOUTH—(AP)—Two hundred pickets surrounded the downtown plant of the Selby Shoe company today following a strike call by the United Shoe Workers union (CIO)

While police stood guard, a few workers entered the huge plant when the 7 a. m. shift started, but there was no disturbance.

KING RESUMES GAIN

WINDSOR, Eng.—(AP)—It was officially stated at Windsor castle today that King George's condition continued to improve under the care of the royal physicians who are treating him for an attack of gastric influenza.

JAPS ATTACK IN AIR, ON LAND

Offensive Renewed in Region of Route to Hankow.

SHANGHAI —(U.P.)— Japanese planes renewed their bombings today while ground forces again smashed at the Chinese lines around Kiukiang, a key city in the defense of Hankow.

For the second time in two days the bombers swept over Canton, largest commercial city in southern China.

At 8:30 a. m. 24 of them dropped 20 bombs in the vicinity of government buildings.

RECORD HIGH

U. S. Steps Up Spending to $24,890,000 Per Day.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government stepped up its spending pace today to the record peacetime average of $24,890,000 a day ordered by President Roosevelt. This is $3,613,000 a day more than last year's average

The president revised his January budget estimates for the fiscal year which began July 1 in order to account for the emergency relief and public works programs. He calculated the treasury would collect only $5 for every $9 it spent, piling up a deficit of about $4,000,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated a belief that business would improve enough to taper off the relief load in March.

SCOFFS AT DEM PRIMARY SPLIT

Kallmerten Claims Anyone Who Talks About It Must Be 'Seeing Ghosts.'

Anyone who talks about a split in the Democratic party in the Richland county primary "must be seeing ghosts," County Executive Chairman E. B. Kallmerten said today.

His statement was made in reply to one made yesterday by G. A. Baer, a former executive committee chairman, now heading a committee backing Charles Sawyer for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination Aug. 9 Sawyer is opposing Gov. Martin L Davey

Stating flatly "I am for Governor Davey and I should be," Kallmerten said that anyone who saw a possibility of a split in the party, "should know that the primary is a process of elimination and it is the right of each individual under the law to vote as he pleases. I reserve that same right

STATE TO REST IN HART TRIAL

Winds Up Testimony in Gang Slaying at Youngstown.

YOUNGSTOWN —(INS)— The state was expected to rest its Cleveland gangster Solly Hart late today.

Hart is one of five men charged with the murder of Roy "Happy" Marino, paroled convict, Sept. 10, last year

Several transcriptions of testimony from the trials of John Anthoulis, of Steubenville, and Herb Ross, of Cleveland, were admitted by stipulation today. Ancil Smith, Detroit automobile salesman who sold the car in which Marino was allegedly shot to death was the day's chief state witness.

FACE CHARGES

Mt. Vernon Youths Brought to Delaware In Robbery Probe.

DELAWARE— (U P) —Sheriff M. F. Pinney today brought Hobart Blanton, 26, and Jack Sharp, 19, both of Mount Vernon, here to face robbery charges The men were captured at Ashland, Ky., and are wanted in connection with a series of filling station holdups.

Daniel Hellwig, 19, also of Mt Vernon, an alleged accomplice of Blanton and Sharp has been bound over to the grand jury.

WORKMEN CLASH

30 Injured as Rival Unions Riot in Coast Town.

WESTWOOD, Cal.—(U P)—More than 30 men were injured today in rioting between two union factions.

Two thousand men fought in the main street of Westwood in which the strike-bound Red River Lumber company is located.

The rioting began when several hundred members of the Industrial Employes union attacked a Committee for Industrial Organization picket line about the lumber company.

The pickets were driven off, but CIO reinforcements soon arrived and the fighting became general.

Fire hoses were turned on by police in an effort to halt the fighting and streams of water were poured into the CIO ranks. The police were over-powered.

Man Killed By Ohio Patrolman Was Fugitive, Black Says.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Robert Thomas Lance, who was shot and killed recently in an encounter with Highway Patrolman Carl Whipple in Clermont county, escaped from the Arizona prison on Dec. 1, 1932, and had been sought since that time, Col Lynn Black, highway patrol superintendent, announced today. It was established through a fingerprint check that Lance was an Arizona fugitive.

BUREAU PAYS DIVIDEND

COLUMBUS—(U P)—Payment of the regular semi-annual dividend of six per cent on preferred stock in the Ohio Farm Bureau corporation was announced today by Murray D. Lincoln, general manager. The total dividend payment to 550 shareholders was $9,755.03.

Barbara Cancels Threat Charges; Plans For Divorce

LONDON — (U P) — A threats charge against Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, which shocked London society and marked the wreck of his marriage to Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow, was withdrawn by mutual consent today at Bow street police court.

In withdrawing the charge, Sir Patrick Hastings, chief counsel for the $40,000,000 Woolworth five-and-ten-cent store heiress, announced that the count had given an undertaking not to communicate with her in any way.

It was expected that the countess would take steps at once to sue in the Danish courts for a separation and eventually for a divorce

She had withdrawn her charge that the count threatened her, that he threatened to "shoot like a dog" a man distinguished in London society of whom he had become jealous; that he demanded $5,000,000 and their child as the price of a separation.

In doing so, she had kept out of the records the name of the man whom the count, according to testimony of William M. Mitchell, another of her lawyers, threatened to shoot.

12 DROWNINGS

Cuyahoga Toll Climbs as Boy Perishes In River.

CLEVELAND—(INS—Cuyahoga county's drowning toll stood at 12 today after the death of eight-year-old Fred Barna, who went swimming in Rocky River in spite of his mother's request he stay away from the water. He was the youngest of eight children.

Files $400,000 Suit, Charges 3 Alienists With Conspiracy

Mrs Mary Hautzenroeder, 23 Benton street, today had filed suit in Columbus, asking $400,000 damages from operators of three sanitaria, charging they conspired with her late husband, Charles Hautzenroder, to keep her in an institution in 1934.

Dispatches from Columbus said Mrs. Hautzenroder had named Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Tarbell, operators of Glen Rest sanitarium, near Worthington; Dr. George T. Harding, operator of Harding sanitarium at Worthington and Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, of White Oak farm, Marion.

Mrs. Hautzenroeder's suit alleges that her husband took her to Dr. Sawyer's sanitarium in March, 1934, and that when she refused to become reconciled with her husband, she was chained to a bed and drugged.

Later, she charged, she was taken to Dr. Tarbell's sanitarium, where she complains she was treated "very cruelly," dispatches said.

In April, the suit says, she was locked in a room at Glen Rest, and charges that Dr. Harding and the other defendants conspired to have her declared insane. The entry finding her insane was expunged from court records in 1935, the suit says

She was later taken to the Columbus state hospital, but released 12 days later when physicians there could find nothing wrong with her, she said.

Mrs. Hautzenroeder claims that her incarceration caused her to lose her home and investments, because she was prevented from managing her business affairs.

Atty Frank S. Culp of Mansfield is counsel for Mrs. Hautenroeder, dispatches said.

—Advice—

Green-Eyed Monster at Root of This

By VIRGINIA LEE

Ladies, have you the type of husband who is always gallant to the girls and women, but cannot seem to get on with the men? There are such critters. (Also, in parenthesis, I might add: there are women who can't get along with other women but who wake up and shine if a member of the "strong sex" appears on the scene—and does she burn up the other women—m-m-m!)

However, I will confine these remarks to the men, as a husband of this sort is troubling a worthy wife. This man has spells when he is cross and irritable and the less said to him the better. But he has been ill a good deal, so his wife excuses that, although she doesn't enjoy these times.

However, he is always "cutting up with the women and girls," says this wife, and when she asks him why he doesn't talk to the men he says he doesn't get along with them—they don't want to talk to him. She is a little jealous of him, she admits, and he says she is always accusing him of doing things he shouldn't. She states her faith in him, however, saying she knows he is not disloyal.

They are not young people, and when he makes her jealous she grows angry and says cutting things that hurt him and she is sorry, but she wonders why he acts as he does when they are away from home, when he knows it will hurt her. It has gotten so he does not always ask her to go with him when he goes to town—they live on a ranch—because she cannot control her feelings. And he seems quite unable to keep from making her jealous by being so attentive to other women. At home he seems to love her, she says, but when they are out he pays little attention to her.

Problem Seems Silly.

When I put your problem in this way I suppose it seems quite ridiculous to you, doesn't it, Mrs. T? It seems as if people your age should be able to control their tempers and not do things to hurt each other? We're queer, we humans, aren't we?

The older I grow the less I feel people are responsible for their behavior. I think they can correct it if they realize their faults, but so many things enter in to make them act as they do. Now, your husband, for instance: Evidently when he was a child or young man he felt that the other boys didn't like him. It may not have been his fault that he wasn't a favorite with other boys, and he had no one to show him how he could win their friendship.

He found, too, that women did like him and that he could always make a good impression with them. That would show the men and make them envy him, he felt. And so, as the years have gone by he has drifted further and further away from his own sex and found his satisfaction in making a fuss over women—any women who were around—to make himself feel important. Even your jealousy of him makes him feel more important and so he keeps on, not because he wants to hurt you, but because this sense of satisfaction is more important to him than your feelings.

He doesn't know why he acts that way any more than you do But I imagine that is the way of it You probably can't reform him, but you can learn to understand and be sorry for him, and not to make scenes over his actions. It is tough on you, of course, but women have to mother men, and I think in the big things of life he is a satisfactory husband and he loves you. Try to be a jolly companion to him—not so much for his sake as for yours. Will you try it?

Sticky Cinnamon Bars.

Two cups scalded milk, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-fourth cup sugar, one cake compressed yeast, one-fourth cup lukewarm water, flour (about six cups), one-fourth cup softened butter, brown sugar, cinnamon, raisins or currants. Cool milk to lukewarm add salt, sugar and yeast cake which has been dissolved in the warm water. Add flour to make a soft dough and knead thoroughly until it no longer sticks to the board. Put in a greased bowl, cover and let rise until it trebles in bulk. Roll into a sheet of one-fourth inch thick, spread liberally with butter, softened to spread easily. Sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon. Add currants or raisins and roll as for jelly roll. Cut into slices and place close together in a greased pan which has been sprinkled with brown sugar. Let rise until light and then bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees Fahrenheit, for 20 minutes.

Rice and other milk puddings must be cooked very slowly to be good. It is only in this way that the starch grains have time to swell and thicken the milk thoroughly.

NOTHING REAL SHOWN

WHEN YOU have forced your partner to bid, by either a "forcing bid" or an informative double, nothing of value is necessarily shown by his response. He may have made merely a bitter choice among several evils. It will not pay you then to jump away up high except to such levels as are safe if he has responded with an utterly worthless bunch of rags.

When South opened with 1-Club on this deal, West overcalled with 1-Diamond, North and East passed and South doubled After a pass by West, North bid 2-Clubs South jumped this to 5-Clubs and West doubled.

The diamond K was cashed by West and the repeat of the diamond A was ruffed by South with the club 10. The Club A was the next play, followed by a ruff of the diamond 7 with the club J. Then the three high hearts were cashed and club Q.

When the spade 3 was played, West won with the J. He had nothing remaining but the two spades and diamonds, so played the spade A and followed with the spade Q, so that South won the rest of the tricks.

South played the hand to the best of his ability, but was not able to offset the poor bid he made.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, July 14.

Rather conflicting planetary directions are predominant on this day. While there may be definite benefit from diligence, industry and close application to dependable matters in hand, yet there may be lures of a rather speculative nature that will have surprising and devastating angles. Fraud or duplicity seem imminent, particularly in connection with writings, publishing or untried finance. The old rut and beaten path are safer.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look for success and some measure of recognition if they will be content with the old order, involving meritorious labor, application and attention to details and system, rather than flights into untried fields or speculative enterprises Writings, publishing and correspondence are in jeopardy. Definite change, adventure or romance might prove devastating.

A child born on this day, although having definite talents, ingenuity, skill and versatility, may have certain mental quirks, temperamental proclivities or eccentricities which might prove detrimental to its success unless such tokens of "genius" be bent in the proper direction

It is a good thing to pull up and destroy or plow under infested plants just as soon as the crop is picked. Rotating the beans in the garden also seems to help some.

Glasses Can Flatter Wearer

By JULIET SHELBY

Central Press Writer on Beauty

Here's some good news for girls who wear glasses. They can be a beauty aid. You can really enhance your looks immeasurably by wearing the right kind of eyeglasses

The right shape and style of glasses can highlight the beauty of your eyes, and can actually slenderize, widen, broaden or elongate your features. And they can point up your personality, too.

If you like to appear sophisticated, oxford glasses will add to your swank If you would rather seem wide-eyed and naive, artistically constructed bridges will outline the space from which you've had those brows plucked so painstakingly. Or, suppose you're wearing a sports suit, horn rims that match, blend or contrast dramatically with it, will emphasize that open air effect. Whereas with that full-skirted, quaint evening gown, a rimless glass is so perfectly in keeping that it tells the whole world you are meticulous and dainty

Perhaps you have one of those slender faces that just won't take on fat no matter how many gallons of milk you drink It's discouraging, isn't it? But it's by no means hopeless, so far as your looks are concerned, if you'll call on your glasses for help.

You'll be amazed to see how curved edges to your lenses will make the contour of your face seem rounder, how a little width and depth added to or subtracted from the lenses will improve the symmetry of your features. If your face is thin, wear oval glasses They should be ample in size, but not exaggeratedly large. Lenses that are too large would emphasize the thinness of your face and tend to make it look owl-eyed. If your face is thin and long, try round lenses They'll make it look shorter and fuller

Makes Face Look Thinner.

Here's a tip for the full face that would like to look a little bit thinner Don't let your lenses cut into the sides of your nose and into your cheeks, lest they puff out the flesh and make it appear bloated. And do wear leaf-shaped lenses. Leaf-shaped lenses are broad on top and taper to a narrower base. They are slenderizing and when sloped to fit easily alongside your nose and against your cheeks, they'll take care of excess avoirdupois.

If the bridge of your nose is high enough to carry a nose glass, select mountings that will stress the long line you're after. If your nose is inclined to be flat, it will be no trick at all for a spectacle bridge to make up for the insufficiency, and to create the lines of beauty you've longed for all your life and thought you would have to go without.

Be sure the ear pieces of your specs don't sink into the sides of your forehead, and then bulge out sharply to encompass your temples They should run back straight from the lenses to your ears

Today's Recipes.

BROWN CHICKEN FRICASSEE —One four and one-half or five-pound chicken or fowl, four tablespoons flour three teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, four tablespoons fat four cups water, one large, peeled quartered onion, celery tops. Order the chicken dressed, cleaned and cut up. Dredge each piece with some of the flour combined with two teaspoons of the salt and the pepper Brown on all sides in the hot fat in a deep kettle. Add the water—boiling water if it is a chicken, and cold water if it is a fowl—the onion, a few celery tops, and the remaining one teaspoon of salt Simmer tightly covered from one to one and one-half hours for the chicken, three to four hours for the fowl, or until tender Now remove the chicken to a hot platter and cover with a gravy made as follows Measure the chicken stock, having first skimmed off any surface fat Then add two tablespoons flour, mixed to a smooth paste in three tablespoons cold water, for every cupful of chicken stock. Simmer five minutes while stirring, then add more salt and pepper if needed Serves six.

Keeping Mint.

To prepare mint for storing in a covered jar, wash it well in boiling water, then shake off as much water as possible and spread the mint in a shallow pan Heat it slowly until it is well dried, then break it up with the fingers and put it in the jar. You'll have mint that may be used for flavoring sauces, meats or salads.

To remove a spot of oil spilled on a rug, rub the spot with gasoline until it disappears.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

IT WAS no use, I told myself dismally as Mother Graham answered my naming of the heart specialist with the frantic query, "Does Richard think Henry has heart trouble?" In trying to shield her from knowledge of the real reason we were sending Hank to the city for medical advice, I had withheld the name of the nerve specialist, and falsely substituted the name of the eminent heart authority. Now I was faced with the problem of soothing her wild fears for her grandson

"No! no! Mother," I said quickly "that is nothing which cannot be remedied right away if taken in time. It's simply that Dicky was not quite satisfied with Hank's condition, and felt that he ought to have a thorough going over before he goes back to school, Hank wants to play football, you know"

"Football'" she ejaculated "With a possibly bad heart?"

"That's just what Dicky wants to find out," I told her. "He won't give Hank his consent for football unless this specialist says it is absolutely right for him to do so"

Tells Her Secret.

"I should hope not" she said acidly "Now when are they going? You said Bill was packing"

I moved closer to her and pitched my voice to a whisper.

"Here's a secret I want you to share with me, so the small boys won't find out," I said, and she turned an attentive face to me intrigued, as she always is, by the mention of secret understandings, which appeal to her melodrama-loving soul.

"Junior and Roderick know that Hank and Bill are going tonight, and why they are going," I began. "But they do not know that Dicky must go with them. They think he will be here in the morning, and I don't want them to find out tonight

"That's right," she agreed "They would raise the very dickens. But the poor little tykes! They'll be so disappointed in the morning We'll all have our hands full with them"

"Not for more than a minute or two, I hope" I told her smiling, and outlined my plan for the diversion of Jerry Tiger and his crow-bait horses.

"Yes, that ought to get their minds diverted if anything could," she agreed. With her own mind plainly at ease, she went on to other things, while I brought a sigh of relief from my shoe soles

When Dicky and the small boys came back from the garden, where they had been romping as he had promised them, I had another reassuring moment They had played so hard that they were almost exhausted, and I knew that it was but a question of minutes before they were sound asleep, not to waken until morning

"Hot baths for both of you," I ordered, "and then bed Kiss Daddy and Granzie good night, and then come upstairs with me"

They were too tired for the slightest protest, but Junior looked sideways at me

"And maybe hot milk?" he said hopefully

"Hot milk and crackers, of course," I promised them in the mood to grant them lobster newburgh and ice cream if they had asked for the combination.

Dicky Is Worried.

"Gee!" Junior and Roderick exclaimed together, and then they obediently bade Dicky and his mother goodnight, and ranged themselves on either side of me for the trip upstairs

"I think I'll take a walk" Dicky said abruptly. "I have a headache"

Intuitively I sensed that he did not wish to talk to his mother for fear he might betray something of his inward turmoil to her keen eyes Luckily, she herself was too fatigued to stay up longer, and beckoned Dicky imperatively to her chair.

"Help me up, please," she said "I think I'm almost as tired as the boys. I'm going to bed"

"I'll go up with you," Dicky said promptly, and although she voiced a conventional protest, I knew that the gesture gratified her, and it was a mollified old woman who bade us all goodnight at her door.

But when her door closed, and Dicky turned away from a last sleepy goodnight from the small boys, his mask dropped, and I saw that the face he carried downstairs was devil-ridden

Stretch Dollars by Budgeting

It's a thrill to get yourself that new hat, the tennis racket or kodak you've been longing for, and it's a great satisfaction to know that you can afford them.

Of course you have to watch your pennies if you have a small income. The trick is to economize where it hurts least. And that's what a budget shows you how to do.

For example, you can make your grocery bill shrink several dollars in a month if you market ahead, watch for food specials, scheme to hame tasty use of leftovers.

Make a definite budget allowance for RENT, FOOD, CLOTHING Plan your spending in advance, then you'll have a surplus with which to buy the things you want most.

Adviser Gives Hints On Manners

By EMILY POST

This is the fifth column in a series of questions sent to me by a high school

What is the best engraving for a visiting card

Answer There is no rule about this further than not to choose anything eccentric or over-ornamented or of unusual size, either very large or minutely small. Block, Shaded Gothic, Old English, Script are equally good. The stationer will show you a card of all his best types and you choose the one that you like the best.

In sending commencement announcements, how should the outside envelope be addressed to a husband and wife? The inside envelope? How should each be addressed to husband and wife and four children

Answer: There is usually only one envelope. In your example this would be addressed 'Mr and Mrs John Henry Smith" and on the line below "The Misses Smith" and then a separate announcement would have to be addressed to "The Messrs. Smith."

In placing a greeting card or card of condolence in an envelope, which side faces the address? Why?

Answer. It is better to have the face side of the card toward the flap because the postoffice stamp on the mailing side sometimes leaves its impression on the card.

What are done with muddlers?

Answer: This is a popular name for an implement used for pressing out and blending fruit juices.

Is it permissible to chew gum in the movies?

Answer: I suppose so, if you can chew silently. This means really silently so that no one can hear you.

When signing a Christmas card, does the husband's, or wife's name come first?

Answer: The person writing should add her name last because this is polite excepting when children's names follow. In this case the father's name comes first; for example: "John, Mary, Marie and Johnnie" (or Johnnie and Marie if Johnnie is the older).

Is it ever permissible for a lady to wear an evening dress if her escort is not dressed in evening clothes?

Answer: Real evening clothes, no In fact, this is one of the evidence of very bad taste in America. So many men want to go out in their ordinary business suits when the girls who go out with them want to put on pretty evening dresses. Naturally the result is a very unsuitable combination that is equally unbecoming to both. The girl looks as though she had made a very great effort to please a man who evidently does not appreciate it.

How are flowers pinned on? Are stems or bloom towards the shoulder?

Answer: It depends on the flowers, in other words upon which way the spray looks best, and they should be pinned where they are most effective on the dress. A girl who always puts flowers, no matter what they are, on the same spot, no matter what dress she wears, is not likely to be the sort of a girl who is noted for her chicness.

My Neighbor Says:

Many garden makers have found it practical to stop cultivating their roses, perennials and shrubs at this season, and to apply a heavy mulch. A mulch retains the moisture and does away with the necessity of frequent cultivation. For a year or two mulching material can be dug into the soil in the autumn or the following spring, but if this practice is continued too long the ground will become so porous that it will dry out more quickly than usual. It is always wise to stop cultivating the roses before the middle of July in order that the plants may have time enough to ripen up their new wood before the coming of cold weather

When you have a number of onions to peel, cover them with hot water and let stand for a minute or two and that thin skin so hard to get off can be removed as if by magic.

LOVE IN DANGER

By KATHRYN BEMIS

(Copyright, 1938)

SYNOPSIS

As Ramona Hunt is dancing at a night club with Halcomb Williams, whose father made his millions in oil, Ray sees a handsome young stranger standing in the doorway looking at her. Dancing with Hal is better than listening to his oft repeated proposals for in spite of his light physique he is a finished dancer. She has just told Hal again that she cannot marry him; that her wedding date is two years off and that then she will probably pick her husband at random. When she looks at the doorway again the tall stranger is gone but her eyes search the room and she sees him at a table. Suddenly he approaches as Hal's back is turned to him, touches Hal on the shoulder, and dances away with Ray. Somehow, she does not resent this. He says he is Frank Armstrong, and that there was no other way to meet her. When she says she is tired of her useless social activities, he says he has interesting work for her to do. The Union Detective agency sent him from New York to Mumford on a special assignment, he confides, and she can help them. Hardly knowing why, she agrees to go to see James Roper the next day. Bluntly Roper offers her $50 a week to report to Armstrong on the doings of and the gossip about her set, adding when she mentions her wealthy Aunt Lucy, the widowed Mrs. Judson Hopper Yates, that her aunt may thank her some day but not know of her work. As she is dining along that night with her aunt, who has mothered her since babyhood, she notices her aunt is not wearing her pearl necklace.

CHAPTER 111

"Exactly, my dear—the necklace was stolen," continued Lucy Yates "I wore it to Martha Ryan's dinner. That clever Clarence Pope put on a preview of a deep sea fishing picture up in the ballroom after we'd dined. There was a crowd—and I was so fascinated by the picture, I forgot I was wearing a fortune. But we won't air this loss. Perhaps the thief will get careless—in time."

"But, auntie," came from the astonished Ray. "We can't let that necklace go — without — without setting detectives on its trail!"

"Oh well—it was insured The insurance company is working on the case. I refuse to fret over it.'

"The—the insurance company!"

* * *

Ray had jumped at a conclusion. She wondered if her new job with the Union Detective agency in any way concerned Aunt Lucy's pearls, then decided it was foolish assumption. The agency would hardly set her to work on what was practically her own affair.

She gazed absently at the ivory candle burning in the silver holder before her. She tried to keep emotion out of her voice as she said, "I'm taking a new man to the Clifton ball tonight He's rather—interesting."

Lucy Yates' ice-blue eyes opened brows. Her heavily rouged mouth wide beneath her dark plucked flexed with humor New men are always interesting, my dear Who is he—where did you find him?'

"I met him last night at the Continental club. His name is Frank Armstrong. He's from New York."

"Armstrong—Armstrong?' Lucy Yate's jeweled hand pushed back an annoying titian curl over her ear. "I can't place any Armstrong—"

"No? But he's quite all right—I'm sure you'll like him."

"I supposed you'd be going with Hal—but it doesn't matter. I once knew an army officer from New York—by the name of Armstrong. He was a captivating creature."

Ray laughed lightly. Aunt Lucy had an annoying habit of recalling her old beaus, making them seem a vivid part of this generation, which always struck Ray as pathetic. "It couldn't possibly be the same man." Ray now reminded her gently.

"Hardly. But this new man seems to have infringed upon Hal Williams' prior rights. What about you and Hal, anyway?"

* * *

Lucy Yates raised her water goblet to her lips, cast a penetrating glance across its rim to her beautiful niece opposite her.

Ray's color rose, she fussed with the handle of her bouillon cup. "We're just friends, auntie Hal has asked me to marry him—but I don't think I like him that much."

"So! That's it? Well—do as you like, darling He's the most eligible man of this or any other season—but you're still young. A few more years of girlhood won't harm you. You're so much more level-headed than most eighteen-year-old girls—you'll select the right man in the end."

"Thank you, auntie," murmured Ray, with averted eyes.

Jarvis came in now and the meal continued with now and then an exchange of perfunctory remarks by the two women. It was a relief to Ray that Frank Armstrong's name was not mentioned again, because it made such a glad commotion in her heart that it was impossible not to show it in her face.

* * *

Lucy Yates finally rose from her chair. Her tall-looking figure was well-rounded in spite of her pretended diet and daily gymnastics There was about her more than a trace of her former stirring beauty. She was the sort of woman who would never grow old in spirit or thought Secretly, now at the brink of middle age, she still visualized herself as the beautiful Lucy Hebberson the debutante who had ruffled the dispositions of mammas of marriageable daughters in the gay '90's She was the same Lucy at heart who had captured Judson Hopper Yates the biggest catch of her first social season.

Ray followed her aunt into the hall as Jarvis announced "Mr. Armstrong calling to see Miss Ramona."

"Thank you, Jarvis," said Mrs. Yates, and went with Ray into the library.

Frank Armstrong advanced to meet them, irresistibly good-looking in his evening clothes

"Aunt Lucy—may I present, Mr. Armstrong?" began Ray, suddenly filled with unaccountable confusion.

Mrs. Yates said, "How do you do, Mr. Armstrong?" and gave him one of her rare smiles as she offered her hand "Ray has been telling me about you What brings you to Mumford, may I ask?"

"Certainly, Mrs. Yates," he responded quickly. "My trip here is in the nature of—you might call it business—mixed with vacation."

Lucy Yates dropped his hand, looked up at him speculatively "Oh—I see," she prevaricated

* * *

Ray caught the trace of coolness in her aunt's tone. Strangers, to meet her approval, must be well vouched for, and she sounded as if she were not quite satisfied with this handsome young man. Ray wondered why he had not acknowledged his connection with Mr. Roper's agency. She was positive now that he was not working for the jewelry insurance people. Perhaps her aunt would put him down as another fortune hunter, make things difficult for him in Mumford. Yet in the face of his peculiar reaction to questioning, Ray felt that he was to be thoroughly relied upon, even though it made her exasperated with herself. What after all did she actually know about Frank Armstrong?

She was to ask herself that question many times after tonight. It was to be a question uppermost in her thoughts for many weeks to come.

* * *

She took Frank Armstrong away from Aunt Lucy's penetrating scruting as speedily as possible. She rode through the chilly autumn night in his little old roadster without the slightest apprehension. Frequently, she stole a glance at this strangely forceful figure of a man who was, of all things, the cause of her being employed by a detective agency. What hilarious humor her crowd could make of that!

They were speeding through the darkly romantic residential section of town when he said, 'I shall always remember this night—the blue gown you're wearing, the ermine trimmed wrap. Please—never dispose of them. I shall ask you to wear them for me—years from now."

She turned to him in surprise. "Years from now?" She tried a laugh that caught in her throat. "That sounds—like a prophecy.

"It is," he affirmed stoutly Then became oddly silent

The car passed through the blazing illumination of a street intersection She could see the firm straight line of his jaw, the determined set of his serious face For an instant, she thought she would always want to do as he willed. Then she promptly shook off such unheard of shackles No man had yet chained her to his will She didn't propose that one should, now.

She shivered inside her black velvet cape, huddled in her corner of the seat. The bracing cool night breeze had no power to lift her tormented spirits. It was as if the air were lugging leaden weights to rest insufferably on her slim shoulders.

The Clifton's pretentious town house was a landmark in Mumford. It had belonged to the banking family of Cliftons for three generations and soon would either be disposed or by the third, or remodeled out of all its former dignity, if Stella Clifton had anything to do about it. Her unmarried Aunt Mabel was the only older member of the family left to appreciate the house's soft rosewood paneling and irreplaceable antique furniture scattered throughout its spacious thirty rooms. Stella hated old people and old things. She was twenty and modern-minded. When she got to hating the old house too much, she threw it wide open for a big party.

* * *

Frank Armstrong pulled up before its brilliantly lighted white-pillard entrance now, gave his car over to a chauffeur, and followed Ray into the big square center hall.

He whispered in her ear, as they were ascending the broad winding stairs, "What a perfect colonial setting!"

"Like it?" she said, surprised that he should speak of it.

"Very much. Can you imagine how many people have walked up these lovely old stairs—how many lovers, for instance?"

Her heart fluttered foolishly and her color deepened. Her blue satin sandals moved faster. One of her hands clutched the narrow mahogany rail a little tighter; the other was tucked under Frank Armstrong's arm, held there firmly by his hand over hers.

"You're fanciful, aren't you? A dreamer, perhaps," she remarked, trying to be casual. She simply must not let herself go over this man.

He gave her hand a quick pressure. "Sometimes — my dreams come true," he said.

She fled from him into the ladies' dressing room. She gave her wrap to a maid and peered with satisfaction into a mirror.

His Race Surprises Texans

W. Lee O'Daniel on the radio . . . hillbilly flour salesman may be governor

Four weeks ago W. Lee O'Daniel, Ohio-born Irish flour salesman and leader of a hillbilly band, seemed merely one of 14 candidates for governor of Texas. Today he is the surprise of the state as he drives toward the gubernatorial seat now held by James Allred, named a federal judge by President Roosevelt (The governor of Texas cannot succeed himself.) O'Daniel, shown broadcasting at Ft. Worth, above, has three planks in his platform First, he is for the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule. Secondly, he is against politicians. Thirdly, he wants to industrialize Texas. He has made a half million dollars selling flour; his sales have doubled since he began running for governor.

FEMMES SPORT COLORED EYES— NOT 'SHINERS'—IT'S NEW CRAZE

Had you noticed that about one out of every four women on the street is sporting a pair of black or blue eyes? It's the style.

Colored glasses are having a popularity that surpasses even the junk-jewelry craze pink, blue, amber, green brown and black glasses with heavy rims that are equallly colorful.

The black glasses with white rims that give a faint suggestion of an inquisitive big-eyed bullfrog just ready for a jolly jump; those dark ones with the "side boards" are faintly remindful of the 1910 period when motorists wore them in open horseless carriages.

Sales are unprecedented this year at the novelty stores and clerks say that it's almost impossible to keep a large stock on hand

No one knows where or why the craze started. It can't be consideration for the eyes, because the sun is no brighter this year than it has been in past years when colored glasses were available Definitely it can't be for beauty One Cynical Male suggests that they are worn for purposes of disguise

But that couldn't be the reason babies are wearing them

They may be had in all shapes and sizes—even the ritzy Oxford style which may be worn on a chain or ribbon is popular

To date the fad has been mostly among the feminine contingent—while the male of the species looks on skeptically

"I heard someone say . . . ."

Not so long ago, people depended upon tales of returned travelers for their information about distant lands. Even when true, these tales were frequently misunderstood and misquoted. Often they were tall tales to begin with . . . There was no way to check up on these stories, no agency devoted to the accurate reporting of what really happened around the world.

Today journalism of integrity is an authoritative source on which to base stories, judgments and opinions. Furthermore, the published story can be referred to and reread in its unchangeable form.

Such journalism requires great care in its compilation, for it must withstand the strong light of publication.

Ashbrook and Sawyer Get Labor League's Endorsement

BACKS SLATE OF 31; DAVEY DRAWS BLAST

Governor's 'Brazen Approval' of Corruption Denounced in Bitter Terms.

Labor's Non-Partisan league in Ohio today announced the endorsement of 31 candidates in the August primaries, dispatches from Columbus said.

Among those endorsed was Congressman William A. Ashbrook, of the 17th Ohio district, which includes Richland county. Ashbrook is seeking renomination against Frank Cave, Mansfield, and Lee H. Purdy, Coshocton.

Pledges Sawyer Aid.

The league came out strongly for Charles Sawyer, opposing Gov. Martin L. Davey for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, at the same time sharply denouncing Davey.

It also endorsed Senator Robert Bulkley, seeking Democratic renomination, and William J. Kennedy, incumbent, for secretary of state; Herbert S. Duffy, incumbent, for attorney general; Clarence H. Knisley, Democratic incumbent, and David Lewis, Republican, for nomination for treasurer.

For congressmen-at-large the league endorsed John McSweeney, incumbent, and Stephen M. Young, Cleveland Democrat.

The league, political voice of the Committee for Industrial Organization, accompanied endorsement of Sawyer with a bitter denunciation of Davey. It said:

"Organized labor . . . has witnessed his brazen approval of collusion and corruption in the highway department and other divisions of government, his coldly calculated maneuvers to withhold relief from those who are unemployed through no fault of their own, his disgraceful pardon of a man convicted of ruining one of Ohio's largest banks."

Sawyer, the league stated, "is a supporter of the Roosevelt administration who has pledged himself to end these abuses."

Bulkley Praised.

The league endorsed Sen. Bulkley because he "has withstood the assault of the combined forces of reaction and has held to the course taken by President Roosevelt."

Other congressional district endorsements beside that of Ashbrook were: (1) Joseph A. Dixon, D., and Charles H. Elson, R.; (2) H. S. Bigelow, D., (3) Byron B. Harlan, D., (4) none, (5) Frank C. Kniffin, D., (6) James Richardson, D., (7) A. W. Aleshire, D., (8) Brooks Fletcher, D., (9) Raymond Sheahan, D., (10) Thomas A. Jenkins, R., (11) H. K. Claypool, D., (12) Henry Worley, D., (13) W. L. Fiesinger, D., (14) Dow W. Harter, D., and Fred Marvin R., (15) Robert T. Secrest, D., (16) W. R. Thom, D., (18) L. E. Imhoff, D., (19) M. J. Kirwan, D., (20) M. Rules Jaster Can Throw Out Bids If Collusion Exists

COLUMBUS — (INS)—The director of the highway department may eliminate all highway proposals "if there is a reason for believing that collusion exists among bidders." Attorney General Herbert J. Duffy today informed Highway Director John Jaster in answer to a request of Jaster that the director's powers be defined.

In an informal opinion, Duffy said:

"In making this determination (whether there has been collusion among bidders) you should consider all information which you have available...and should give such consideration to a decision of a court and a report of the board of inquiry as you may deem proper under the circumstances."

The common pleas court recently granted a temporary injunction against 34 contractors holding up payments to them for completed "hot-mix" road jobs in the state.

RITES AT FUNERAL HOME

Funeral services for Mrs. Minnie Hockensmith, 64, who died in the Richland county infirmary yesterday, will be held at the Geiger funeral home at 4 p. m. Thursday with Rev. Lee H. Ellington officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Doubts Confession In Mattson Kidnap Case

Up and Down THE STREET

Playing golf in the moonlight will never become popular but it is possible. Art Fovarque, jr., and S. S. Humbert proved it last night under the bright moon at the Coolridge golf course with the loss of only one ball. Although they found it difficult to follow their drives, their ability to judge distance enabled them to find the balls without difficulty. Fovarque lost the only ball when he hooked his drive on the ninth tee into the lake. They started at 9:15 p. m. and finished at midnight. The scores: Humbert 47, Fovarque 50.

A nice way to spend a vacation when the thermometer in Mansfield is around 90, is to go sailing among the islands of Georgian Bay, where you have to wear a sweater all the time, take it from D. O. Meese, who was one of four Mansfielders who returned Sunday night from two weeks in the northern Canadian waters. Jack Balliett, Dale Ward, and Meese were guests of Paul Tappan on the Tappan sailboat which had been taken to Georgian Bay earlier in the season. They lived on the boat, anchoring near Tobermory. Their fishing catches were mostly pickerel, lake trout, and bass, with some of the trout weighing six pounds.

At some future date, if you should see a very slim, sylph-like police officer on the street, whose face looks faintly familiar, it probably will be Capt. Tom Bell. That, however, is a very optimistic slant on the veteran officer's diet, and one which he doesn't share. He has been eating raw carrots and milk for a couple of weeks for the purpose of reduction and "equal distribution" of poundage, but to date he hasn't lost a pound, and he's pretty discouraged about the whole thing.

* * *

His three companions couldn't draw any connection between legal authority and luck as a fisherman, but at any rate Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston out-distanced them yesterday in a fishing excursion on Lake Erie. Returning home with 62 pickerel and bass and first-class sunburns, the party admitted that the judge caught more than 20 of the fish, including the biggest, and got his share of the sunburn. Others in the group were C. A. McKinley, court assignment clerk; Harry Crouse, court bailiff and Atty. Henry Huston.

OFF TO SHILOH

Retail Merchants' Dinner to Be Held Tonight.

Members of the Retail Merchants association will abandon their business roles today to enjoy their annual summer Goodwill dinner, which will be held at Shiloh.

A kittenball game is scheduled for 6 p. m. and dinner at 7. The chicken dinner will be served by the women of the Lutheran church in the High school, and the evening's entertainment will be provided by Shiloh talent. One hundred and ten have registered for the affair.

The Goodwill dinner is held each year at a different community in the Mansfield area. Harry Frick is chairman of the committee on arrangements. C. M. Crafton, president of the association will preside at the dinner.

3,000 MARCH IN NLRB PROTEST

Crowd Cheers Steel Firm's Attorney, Excluded From Hearing by Examiner.

(By Associated Press)

STEUBENVILLE—A laughing, jeering throng of approximately 3,000 persons milled in front of the federal building today, flaunting banners attacking the national labor board and shouting protests against the expulsion of a Weirton Steel company attorney from the board's 11-month-long hearing against the company.

A mass parade from the steel mill town of Weirton, W. Va., to Steubenville was abandoned following the transfer of the hearing to Pittsburgh last night, but 200 steelworkers came across the Ohio river in buses and automobiles to join several hundred townspeople.

Although visibly disappointed by the shift of the hearing, which one leader said "ruined" the planned demonstration, the crowd cheered Clyde Armstrong, company attorney barred from the hearing by Examiner E. Grandison Smith, and shouted lustily as Smith was hanged in effigy from a hotel window.

Hoisted to the shoulders of two brawny steel workers on the steps of a hotel (Fort Steuben) facing the federal building, Armstrong cried:

"We never would have been able to carry on over there (waving a hand at the federal building) if it hadn't been for a fine crowd—a group of people like you."

The crowd roared as the straw-stuffed, overall clad dummy bearing a placard "Grandstand Smith" was dropped on a rope from the second floor window of the hotel.

EXTENDS WATER BILL COLLECTION

Lingafelter Gives East Side Consumers Extra Day To Pay.

With more than 50 per cent of the 3,500 water and sewer rental bills still outstanding, Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the city water, sewer and garbage departments today announced a one-day extension of the collection period.

Lingafelter said the offices of the department in the city building will remain open until 4 p. m. Saturday to receive payments of the east side bills that to date represent only $13,000 of the $29,000 billing. The deadline for the period was originally set for Friday.

Lingafelter warned that failure to make payment by that time will result in the usual 10 per cent penalty.

SERVICES AT CHURCH

Funeral services for Anton Stirtzinger, 65, of 375 Third avenue, who ended his own life Monday, will be held at St. John's Evangelical church at 2 p. m. Thursday with Rev. S. W. Krause of Loudonville officiating in the absence of Rev. Paul Saleste, pastor of the church, who is on a vacation. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. The body will remain at the Geiger funeral home until the time of services.

NAZIS GET NEW WARNING FROM FRANCE ON CZECH CONTROVERSY

(By Associated Press)

The Spanish civil war and the Chinese-Japanese conflict brought new bombardments of Barcelona and Canton today while Britain rushed additional troops to the troubled Holy land and France gave Germany an indirect warning to keep hands off Czechoslovakia.

France's warning came in the form of a declaration by Premier Edouard Daladier that he hoped France would never have to fulfill her pledge to protect Czechoslovakia but was determined never to go back on her word if such hopes proved vain.

He made his statement as France opened a campaign for a huge unlimited arms loan and published in the official journal a law detailing general organization for the nation in time or war.

A squadron of armored cars from the 11th hussars rumbled into Palestine from Egypt as British authorities met at Haifa to consider placing the country under martial law to halt the conflict between Arabs and Jews.

A British officer was reported wounded and nine tribesmen killed in a midnight engagement on the plain of Esdraelon.

In Spain, Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco was reported to have taken personal command of a unified army of 200,000 for a concerted drive against Valencia from three directions. The government was said to have massed 250,000 men to oppose the offensive.

The insurgent raid on Barcelona was believed to be in reprisal for a government air attack on the insurgents' eastern lines yesterday.

The Chinese and Japanese continued to fight for Kiukiang, important Yangtze river port 135 miles downriver from Hankow, China's provisional capital. The Chinese were reported holding the attackers a few miles below the city.

The Japanese bombardment of Canton was the second in two days. Fifty-two were killed and probably 200 injured in yesterday's raids.

Farm Laborer Held After He Admits Stealing, Killing Washington Boy.

BULLETIN

TACOMA, Wash. — (INS) — A man identified as Frank Olson, 32, held as a suspect in the Mattson kidnap-murder case, "is obviously deranged and issuance of a warrant charging him with the Mattson murder is unjustified," Chief William Cole of the state patrol announced today.

(By United Press)

TACOMA, Wash.—After further questioning of Frank Olson, 32, a farm laborer, who had confessed kidnaping and murdering Charles Mattson, State Police Chief William Cole announced today that the confession might not "stand up."

"Olson is a man of uncertain mentality," Cole said. "We will question him further, but I'm not sure the confession can be substantiated by facts."

Cole had announced Olson's confession last night after the suspect had been questioned since his arrest Friday night.

G-Men Called In.

The federal bureau of investigation which has solved all the country's major kidnapings except this one and one other, and which has been seeking the kidnaper continuously since the Mattson child was stolen Dec. 27, 1936, was taken completely by surprise. Federal agents joined state police in questioning Olson and soon afterward Cole made his second announcement.

Arrested when he told a friend he wished to clear his conscience, Olson was taken to the Adams county jail at Ritzville. There, it was said, police officials at once recognized his striking resemblance to an artist's drawing of the Mattson kidnaper as conceived from the description given by the only persons who saw him—three children. Olson served time in prison, it was said.

Saturday morning he was interrogated intensively, state police officials said. Finally, he broke down and wept. Then, with a stenographer present, he made one confession, they said. This was that he had been involved in the crime but had not been the actual kidnaper and killer. Later he made a second confession, authorities said, in which he had strangled the child after stealing him from his father's home in Tacoma. He insisted he had an accomplice. The man whom he named was arrested but authorities did not reveal his identity.

FARMER'S PRICE OUTLOOK BETTER

Major Commodities Recovery Cause 5 to 37 Per Cent Increase.

CHICAGO—(AP)—A general recovery of major farm commodities' values during the past two months has increased prices 5 to 37 per cent and altered the 1938 agricultural outlook, an analysis of Chicago markets disclosed today.

Wholesale prices of nine important commodities which help to gauge the extent of farm prosperity have risen an average of 19 per cent since the broad upturn from a four-year low level began late in the spring.

Hogs and cattle, a major source of farm income, have led the upturn with a price increase of 24 to 31 per cent.

GEN. JOHNSON:

In Defense of 'Yes But' Men Who Stand In Way of President's Objectives

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—The president's "yes-butters" are gents who "profess great devotion to the cause of bettering the lot of their fellowmen and, when the time for action comes, find all kinds of reasons why they should not support the action proposed."

There is an ideal military rule for examining every suggested course of action. It is just as good for business and, I think, for government. It is to ask and answer satisfactorily three questions—or else not accept the particular suggestion. The first is: "Why do it at all?" If you satisfy yourself on that, the next question is: "Why do it this way? If it passes muster on that, either in original or amended form, you then ask: "Why do it now?"

* * *

This, upon examination, will prove to be a triple-action "Yes, But" formula. Yet what is the matter with it? You can't even think without saying: "Yes, But." If men have a duty to help decide on the wisdom and form of any action before taking it, how can they perform that duty without saying: "Yes, But"—along some such line as the three-question formula just discussed? The only kind of person who could avoid saying, "Yes, But" would be one who was willing to let the proponent of any scheme do that duty for him and be at once both his will and his intelligence—in violation of his own responsibility to his office, his constituents, his manhood and his conscience—a simon-pure yes-man, an incarnate puppet, an automatic rubber stamp.

* * *

The President's "Yes-But" definition leaves little room for any other kind of critter in the space between the "Yes-Men" whose election he so much desires and the "Yes-Butters" whom the country must have in congress if constitutional representative democrary is to continue to live.

There is no exaggeration for the sake of argument. The first necessity to any modern dictatorship is a strong leader with a legislature and judiciary purged of all yes-butters and inhabited exclusively by "Yes-Men." Precisely on that formula were the present one-man governments of Italy, Germany and Russia made possible. In its early stages it preserves the outward forms of democracy and then, through yes-men who have abandoned their intellectual duties in favor of one man's wishes, it creates a form of dictatorship even more effective than one made by forcible ursurpation, murder, banishment and political imprisonment.

* * *

Why is any man less devoted to liberal principle because he says, "Yes, But" to some particular way of putting it into effect? A "Yes-Man" in one of these perverted democracies is not a liberal at all. He is rather a cog or racket in a particularly hateful form of anti-democracy.

Since Jan. 1, 1937, this administration has hardly taken one important action which does not reveal a strong and unchanging purpose to people the congress, the courts and all the supposedly independent bureaus and commissions with yes-men to the fullest practicable extent. The president now frankly asserts his disapproval of "Yes-Butters." I don't believe he does this with the same conscience and intent that Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini did it. He is just eager and determined for his policies. But the effect, if not the purpose, is inevitably the same and no amount of argument can rail away that perfectly obvious fact.

* * *

This has become a matter serious beyond the dividing line between political parties. This country is liberal. The first specification for any candidate is that he shall be liberal and most of them will be. The vital choice is between liberal "Yes-Butters" and liberal ""Yes-Men"—between men and puppets. Regardless of party, representative democracy requires an open season on "Yes-Men" from now on.

Hollywood Speaks---

By ROBBIN COONS

Robbin Coons, our Hollywood columnist, is in New York to see what movie activities are like in the east.

NEW YORK—I'm the guy that came to bury Caesar and found him doing the Big Apple.

The New York theater isn't dead. It doesn't even look sick to me.

Back in Hollywood, when came the talkie dawn, we used to say smugly, "The stage had better look to its laurels." This past season we got reports that the stage, at last, had looked.

But there's nothing like seeing for yourself. That's what I've been doing. And if what I've seen is ailing, then I've been a corpse for ten years.

The movies have taken over Broadway, yes. But on those shoddy side streets there is excitement and beauty and a sense of things stirring. And I don't mean mice.

The most of excitement, beauty, and stirring I found in the one piece of which Hollywood can make nothing on film. Don't look for Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" at your local nickelodeon.

* * *

Maybe Hollywood's own William K. Howard, who had a hand with Jed Harris in the production, is planning to film it but I hope he isn't. He'd lose his polo shirt. Besides, I hate to think of what the screen, with its matchless facilities for realism, could do to "Our Town."

"Well, now, we gotta have scenery." That would be the first shot at the movie story conference.

Whoever said it would be right. Any movie without scenery would be as boring as Mr. Will H. Hays at a ceremonial banquet. On the stage, in "Our Town," you miss scenery less than I'd miss Constance Bennett from the screen. If Mr. Wilder is going to write more pieces like it, the stage won't have to worry much about looking to its laurels.

"On Borrowed Time," on the other hand, is going to be a movie. It ought to be a fine one. But I'd hate to be the scripter who has to put pretty words in the old grandpa's mouth. In the movies grandpas get their mouths washed with good Breen soap for saying much less than Dudley Digges says on the stage. But the Digges grandpa is a character I'd hate to see without a home. The stage can take him as he is. The movies have to sprinkle the sugar.

* * *

Another quick reason the stage will have to keep on living is "Shadow and Substance." Taking the play cold, my movie-trained mind (aged 13) couldn't quite decipher it. Julie Haydon's been a personal weakness for a long time, and she's on the stage a great deal, giving a radiant and glowing performance. Next time I intend to watch the play, and pay more attention to the fine work of Sir Cedric Hardwicke and the others.

But Julie Haydon, all by herself, is cause enough to feel confidence in the theater 's life.

Julie, remember, was mishandled and abused by Hollywood—kicked around, I call it—and she's never going back. I have her word for it, and it serves Hollywood right.

But there has to be a place to cherish people like Julie. That place is the stage. If it doesn't keep on recognizing its responsibility, I'm going to invoke Hollywood's best hex on the whole business.

'There's Nothing to Stop McNeill In March to Tennis Supremacy'

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Bruce Barnes, former national doubles tennis champ, is serving notice on the nation's ranking stars to prepare to move over and make room near the top for Don McNeill, Kenyon college ace and present national senior king of the indoor courts.

"Given the time to devote to top-flight tournament play, there is nothing to stop Don in his climb to world supremacy," Barnes says.

And to give McNeill that experience, Barnes mapped an extensive summer tournament campaign for his protege, a drive which he is certain will land the youngster fifth in 1939 national rankings.

"Not only should Don jump from ninth to fifth in the ratings," Barnes says, "but if his net game continues to improve and soon equals his back-court ability, he will be fighting for the No. 1 spot on the U. S. Davis cup team within a year or two."

McNeill grabbed the Ohio conference title for the second straight year recently. Barnes says the youth is a "smarter and headier player than when he won his national indoor victory."

"Don is learning court strategy and employing shrewd patience to such an extent that his game has improved 25 per cent in the last few months. One of his greatest assets is his nerveless, unruffled manner which enables him to turn on the heat when the going gets toughest. I believe he really enjoys getting in tough spots, for his many final-set performances attest the great stretch drive he possesses.

"Added to all that he has all the shots, and a quiet, undeniable determination to reach the peak."

Here's how Barnes predicts McNeill will fare in the summer drive toward the heights:

New York state at Forest Hills, July 11-16: "outcome questionable."

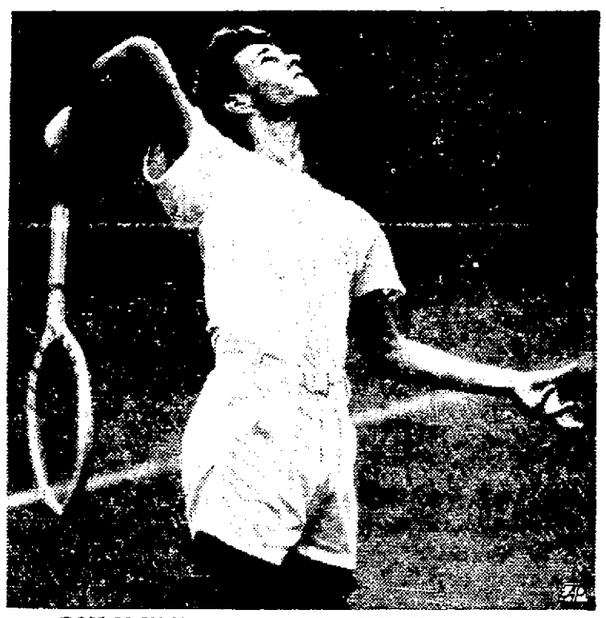
Eastern clay courts at Jackson Heights, N. Y., July 18-24: "probable winner."

Seabright, N. J., July 25-31; Southampton, L. I., August 1-7, and Eastern grass at Rye, N. Y., August 8-15: "good chance to win one of three."

Newport, August 15-21: "may reach finals."

National doubles, paired with Hal Surface: "little chance."

National singles, first week in September: "should reach semi-finals with a break in the draw."



DON McNEILL . . . No. 9 in 1938, No. 1 in 1940?

Champs Dominate Woman's Tourney

Mrs. Weil, Sally Elson Clash In Headline Match At Portage Country Club Today.

AKRON—(UP)—The dominance of Ohio women's golf by a select set of feminine stars was more pronounced today than at any previous time in history as play began in the second round of the 19th annual state tournament at the Portage country club.

The eight satellites who remained in the title fight included four former champions and two other stars who have been finalists in the tournament.

Grouped In Bracket.

By the oddest quirk possible the four former title-holders were grouped in the lower bracket. They were: Mrs. Burt Weil, Cincinnato; Sally Elson, Columbus, Mary K. Browne, Cleveland; and Mrs. Curtis Sohl, Columbus.

Mrs. Weil, the winner of the championship in 1934-35-36, faced Miss Elson, the 1937 queen, in the headline second round match. Miss Browne, the one-time international tennis star who turned to the links for greater athletic glory, copped the state links crown in 1931. She opposed Mrs. Sohl, who captured the title in 1921 and repeated in 1929.

The battles of the former queens completely overshadowed matches in the upper bracket that sent the collegiate rivals, Janet Shock of Dayton, and Eva Shorb of Massillon, against each other; and pitted Mrs. Linton Fallis of Toledo against Mrs. Charles Harbaugh of Cleveland.

Miss Shock went to the finals in 1936 at Cleveland Canterbury and Mrs. Fallis was in the title round in 1935 at Cincinnati Maketawah.

Today's Pairings.

Janet Shock, Dayton, vs. Eva Shorb, Massillon.

Mrs. Linton Fallis, Toledo, vs. Mrs. Charles Harbaugh, Cleveland.

Mrs. Burt Weil, Cincinnati, vs. Sally Elson, Columbus.

Mary K. Browne, Cleveland, vs. Mrs. Curtis Sohl, Columbus.

Yesterday's Results.

Miss Shock defeated Isabew Ogilvie, Cleveland, 5 and 3.

Miss Shorb defeated Mrs. John Pennington, Cleveland, 5 and 3.

Mrs. Fallis defeated Mrs. E. E. Bowler, Akron, 4 and 2.

Mrs. Harbaugh defeated Mrs. H. P. Welsh, Ashland, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Weil defeated Mrs. Warren Billings, Akron, 6 and 4.

Miss Elson defeated Dorothy Gardner, Steubenville, 5 and 4.

Miss Browne defeated Dorothy Spindler, Cincinnati, 1 and 3.

Mrs. Sohl defeated Naomi Copie, Toledo, 1 up.

Two Mansfield Women Triumph.

MRS. ALLAN TAPPAN and Mrs. A. J. Reynolds turned in victories to remain in line for flight championships in the Ohio Women's tournament yesterday.

Mrs. Tappan defeated Mr. Don Kepple of Akron, 9 to 8, and Mrs. Reynolds won over Mrs. H. A. Ball, 8 and 6. The former was scheduled to meet Mrs. Worth Curtis of Sandusky and the latter was paired with Mrs. Don Brennan today.

Other Mansfield participants, Mrs. E. R. Hartman and Mrs. A. E. Allen, were defeated yesterday, but continued in play today in consolation flights. Mrs. Hartman, defeated by Mrs. Alice Wilcox, Toledo, 2-1, met Mrs. Carl Beck, Akdon, and Mrs. Allen, beaten by Mrs. C. A. Covert, Akron, 6-4, faced Mrs. William Hobart, Cleveland.

Vitt Seconds Motion On Hemsley, Keltner

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

FOLLOWERS of the Cleveland Indians give three reasons for the fine conduct of their team in the current American league race. They are unanimous in claiming credit for the present standings of the tribal warriors for Oscar Vitt, Rollie Hemsley and Ken Keltner.

Being a rather modest chap, Vitt is reluctant to boost that his inspirational leadership has been a major factor in the climb of the Indians. But Vitt agrees with the fans on the other two points.

"I can't say too much for Hemsley," Vitt remarked in a recent interview. "He's a good hitter, a great competitor and has uncanny judgment back of the plate. He has helped Bob Feller a lot and anything that helps Feller benefits the whole Cleveland club.

* * *

HEMSLEY'S little finger was broken by a foul tip a few weeks ago. He sold himself to me when he asked to catch while the finger was still sore and swollen. He worked with Feller against Boston Monday when he should have been on the bench. I told him to rest a while longer, but he insisted on catching and did a swell job. You have to go along with a fellow like that."

Hemsley is the player whose disregard of training rules has frequently drawn him into difficulties. Vitt has had some trouble with him.

"I haven't had anything but loyalty from him since he was reinstated," said Vitt, rapping his knuckles against the wooden seat of the dugout.

"I am convinced that he is really trying to keep in the straight and narrow. A few days it was pretty hot and we had won a few games so I ordered a couple of cases of beer for the clubhouse. Think Hemsley would have any of it? No, he sent the clubhouse boy out for a bottle of pop."

At the start of the season, Vitt was skeptical of Keltner, whom he had picked as his regular third baseman in training camp.

"He looked like a good ball player in the south," said the Cleveland pilot, "but, of course, we didn't know how he would hold up. With the race a third over, I'm satisfied that he is a big leaguer. He has been fielding and throwing well and gaining steadiness.

* * *

KELTNER'S long-distance hitting recalls to his teammate, Bruce Campbell, a bet he heard made in a Detroit hotel the night before the season opened in Detroit.

"A couple of men were arguing about Keltner and Don Ross of Detroit, who were breaking in as third basemen," said Campbell. "One of the men was a Detroit fan. He offered to bet that Ross would hit more home runs in his first season than Keltner would. I wonder how he feels now? Ken has 15 and the last time I noticed Ross had only one."

JOHNS PARK JUNIORS ADD 12 IN FOURTH TO WIN

The Johns park juniors defeated the Schnittker Shells, 12 to 8, in a softball game at Johns park yesterday. The Juniors tallied all of their runs in the fourth inning with the aid of only two hits. Bruback of the Shells hit a home run.

THE last undefeated team to fall by the wayside in the city recreation Intermediate baseball league was trimmed yesterday at the Fairground.

It was the Athletics, who dropped a 7 to 2 decision to the Tigers. The victory puts the Tigers in a tie with the A's.

Frieheit held the Athletics scoreless until the last inning, while his teammates tallied four times in the third. Freiheit helped his own cause with a triple and single. LeMunyon also secured two hits.

The Senators strengthened their grip on third place by whipping the White Sox, 8 to 1. Winbigler allowing the Pale Hose only one hit. He struck out seven and walked six.

Benches Solters As Indians Lose

Vitt Fumes After Tribe Tosses Away Game In Washington Because of Sloppy Fielding.

WASHINGTON—Oscar Vitt, irked about the 9-8 defeat by Washington which left Cleveland with only a half-game margin over New York, characterized the Indians today as the worst defensive team he has seen.

"Of the 26 games we've lost we've beaten ourselves out of 13," declared the Tribe manager. "I realize that the best of them kick away a game now and then, but the winners don't kick them away at the rate we've been following.

"I've been in baseball for nearly 30 years and I've never seen as bad a defensive team as this one—either in the majors or minors."

Nominates Feller.

Vitt declared that Moose Solters, in a hitting slump all season, would be benched for the remainder of the campaign after constant fielding miscues, and named Bob Feller to try to stop the Senators today.

Solters

Feller, trying for his tenth win of the campaign against three defeats, was likely to face Harry Kelley, the veteran right-hander who has pitched two shutouts in his last three starts.

Opening a crucial eastern invasion yesterday with a two-game margin over the New York Yankees, Cleveland contributed four runs to Washington by bad fielding and three more by bases on balls. The defeat, coupled with New York's twin victory over St. Louis, put the Tribe in the difficult position of attempting to keep ahead on enemy battlegrounds.

Despite repeated failures and subsequent weighty evidence that Denny Galehouse is not good enough to be a starting pitcher, Vitt sent the big right-hander against the Senators.

Galehouse was nicked for two runs in the first inning and then hammered off the hill in the second. Earl Whitehill, the veteran southpaw who was Vitt's original starting nomination, then came on and wobbled through until the eighth when Bill Zuber took up the burden. Zuber got by the eighth, but walked Rick Ferrell to open the last half of the ninth inning and immediately was replaced by Johnny Humphries.

Humphries fell while trying to field Elon Hogsett's bunt and then walked George Case to fill the bases. He then fanned Buddy Lewis, but Sam West flied out and Ossie Bluege, running for Ferrell, came home with the winning run after the catch.

Washington scored twice in the first inning on two walks and an infield hit and when Wasdell opened the second round with a home run, Galehouse was on his way to the showers. In the next six innings Whitehill permitted only four hits, but atrocious support enabled the Senators to score six more counters.

Loose Play Costly.

Only one error shows against the Indians in the box score, but their defensive laxness was extremely costly.

Despite the ineffective pitching and loose play in the field the Tribe continued to display plenty of courage. They fought an uphill battle and finally tied the score in the ninth on a home run by Sammy Hale.

Hines Threat To Shute In PGA Tourney

Rates His Chances Good to Halt Defending Champ.

By BILL BONI

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa.—(AP)—They threw Jimmy Hines at Defending Champion Denny Shute, winner of 14 straight P. G. A. matches, in today's 36-hole third round of the pros' own national championship. But Jimmy wouldn't concede that they were throwing him to the lions, or even one lion.

"Somebody's got to beat Denny some day," said the big blond from Great Neck, N. Y., who dropped a 4 and 3 decision to Shute in the 1937 quarter-finals, "and there's no reason why it shouldn't be me. He knows he's going to have a match on his hands."

For that matter, each of the 16 survivors on today's program had the same thing—"a match on his hands." Going right down the line, there were Byron Nelson against Harry Bassler of California; Marvin Stahl, the tournament's prize discovery from Lansing, Mich., against Jim Foulis, who knocked off Gene Sarazen a year ago; Sam Snead against Felix Serafin, surprise conqueror of Harry Cooper and Ky Laffoon yesterday; Billy Burke and Horton Smith, Ray Mangrum and ex-Champ Paul Runyan, Sarazen and square-shouldered Jimmy Demaret, and Henry Picard and Dick Metz, who put out Open Champion Ralph Guldahl in the second round.

It's a line-up that, so far as experting is concerned, would give the jitters even to a sooth-sayer with third sight.

Legion Plays At New Philly

Hopes to Retain Share of Lead Next Sunday.

Encouraged by their showing against the Federal Glass club of Columbus, the Mansfield American Legionnaires will invade New Philadelphia Sunday in their attempt to retain at least a share of first place in the Central Ohio semi-pro league.

Manager Dewey Durant's club defeated Columbus, 6 to 2, in the opening game of the second round Sunday.

While Mansfield is at New Philadelphia, Lancaster plays at Coshocton, Logan at Columbus and Jackson at Newark.

Rampaging Pirates Climb Ahead of Giants

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK—(NS)—Not long ago some of the more irate Pittsburgh fans were demanding Pie Traynor's scalp in no uncertain terms. At that time, they wanted him banished to Moscow, Brooklyn or some other spot where he couldn't annoy them.

But that was when the Pirates were headed nowhere and selling them fast. Today, with the Pirates in first place and boasting an unbroken string of 13 straight victories, the same fans probably are proclaiming Pie a genius.

The Pirate manager, however, undoubtedly will take the boosts in stride as he did the knocks. He knows now, as Connie Mack long ago discovered, that fans are fickle. You're a great guy when winning but a bum when losing.

In any event, he has his team clicking on all cylinders and with a home stay just ahead, he should be able to widen the gap between the Pirates and Giants.

The Pirates knocked off the Cubs yesterday, 14-6. They bumped five of Phil Wrigley's

THEATER

SOMETHING went haywire with the "month of brides" in Hollywood, for there were more divorces and separations than there were marriages and engagements. Luise Rainer asked a divorce from Clifford Odets; Jack Cohn sued Alice Day, and Sari Maritza won a decree and $1,400 a month from Sam Katz; Art Jarrett divorced Eleanor Holm whose romance with Billy Rose has been headlined; the young Tom Browns came to a parting of the ways, and in the east George E. Stone, character actor, was divorced by his wife. The surprise break-up was that of Randolph Scott and his Virginia wife. Marion Dupont Somerville, his childhood sweetheart and the owner of the race horse, Battleship, that won the English Derby this year. The June weddings were limited to Frances Langford and Jon Hall, Gloria Dickson and Perc Westmore, Lily Pons and Kostelanetz. The Eddie Cantors came to the rescue by celebrating their 24th wedding anniversary.

"Woman Against Woman."

It might be a chapter from real life or a page from a "true confession" magazine, for "Woman Against Woman" brings to the Ohio screen the last half of the week a story that has many counterparts in every day life. It is the story of a first wife who hounds her husband in his second marriage, dramatizing herself as a wronged wife when she herself had been the marital delinquent. She uses old friends and her child to make the second wife unhappy. An interesting moral battle ensues with Mary Astor as the first wife, Virginia Bruce as the second wife, and Herbert Marshall as the husband. The film, a society drama, was made from the novel "Enemy Territory," by Margaret Culking Banning.

Has First Comedy Role.

Merle Oberon, who in turn has donned the exotic and the tragic masks on the screen, drops both for comedy in "The Divorce of Lady X," Alexander Korda's first color production, which begins a two-day engagement at the Madison today. For the first time the English brunet will have an opportunity to laugh, to be gay and witty on the screen, after appearing in a series of pictures designed for tears. London fog is the underlying theme behind this romantic comedy of a girl and a serious young man who meet in a London hotel room on a night too foggy for travel. The complications that arise from this innocent episode keeps the young man in hot water and the girl in high good humor.

* * *

Fields Is Skipper.

W. C. Fields, who might as well have patented his own brand of humor since no one else has ever tried to imitate it, goes to town in "Mississippi" as the skipper of the showboat which plays the Mississippi towns. He is the sly, philosophical buffoon who turns every occasion to his own interests. When Bing Crosby is connected with a purely accidental killing, Fields bills him as the "Singing Killer" and cashes in on the crowds. The romantic theme is carried by Crosby, Joan Bennett and Gail Patrick. The film is being shown at the Majestic along with "Now and Forever," with Carole Lombard, Gary Cooper and Shirley Temple.

Fun While It Lasts.

A beautiful girl who has only a few months to live is brought to New York City by a newspaper and feted and glorified as a final "beautiful gesture" before her life is ended, in "Nothing Sacred," but when it is discovered that there never has been anything wrong with her and that she's pretty apt to live to a ripe old age, there's a reckoning. The girl is Carole Lombard and the reporter is Frederic March. "Nothing Sacred" is being shown at the Ritz, with "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round," a melee of famous names and varied talents recruited from the stage, radio and screen.

A LOAN PLAN TO HELP YOU

What many people need today is a loan large enough to accomplish all their purposes and put all accounts into one.

A loan with payments small enough to be easily met and leave more of the family income for family needs is the answer.

Check our loan plan and see if it won't help you.

AVERAGE LOAN COSTS
Less Than 3c a Day

You Can Borrow Any Amount $25 to $1000	Repay In Step Down Payments Starting At	Payments Reduce As You Repay	Monthly Cost Averages (for long term)
$1000	$50	$15.89	$4.78
800	40	13.78	4.37
700	35	12.68	4.09
500	30	10.80	3.65
400	24	9.45	3.30

PAM— A Call! By A. W. Brewerton

NEXT MORNING PAM ARRIVED EARLY AT THE OFFICE! THAT DREAM WAS STILL ON HER MIND!
WELL, THE OFFICE HASN'T BEEN BLOWN UP OVER NIGHT, AND HERE'S THE PACKAGE ALL OKAY WHERE I HID IT IN THIS LETTER FILE!
IT WAS ABOUT 8 INCHES LONG AND 4 WIDE WITH A WRAPPER OF HEAVY CREAM COLORED PAPER TIED WITH RED CORD AND SEALED AT EACH END!
I'D SURELY LIKE TO KNOW WHAT'S IN IT — IT'S A BOX, I THINK — COULD CONTAIN A —NECKLACE
IT GAVE OUT A SLIGHT DULL RATTLE WHEN SHAKEN
7-13
THIS THING HAS GONE ON LONG ENOUGH — I'M GOING TO TELL COLONEL CAREY JUST AS SOON AS HE COMES IN!
IT WAS "THAT MAN" AT LAST! SHE RECOGNIZED HIS VOICE AT ONCE — HE SPOKE IN A LOW, CAUTIOUS, BUT VERY DISTINCT TONE!
FUNNY I DON'T HEAR ANYTHING FROM THAT MAN — OH, THERE'S THE PHONE
HELLO — THAT PACKAGE LEFT WITH YOU — YOU ARE GUARDING IT VERY CAREFULLY?
YES —YES, I AM — IT IS SAFE

Steel Stocks Again in Van as Business Developments Encourage Brokers.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK—(INS)—A broad buying movement lifted the stock market 1 to 5 points today, and brought back better than 2,000,000-share volume for Wall Street's brokerage houses. The rally, an extension of the previous day's spurt on rumors of impending wage cuts for steel workers, was an impressive one.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market today extended the preceding day's advance with a broad and active upswing of one to four points. All sections participated.

Trading was heavy from the opening bell, blocks running to 9,700 shares changing hands with the high-speed ticker falling 3 minutes behind at one time.

Steels again were in the van, as Wall Street continued to talk of an early announcement on some form of wage reduction for the industry. Ae Pittsburgh scrap prices again were marked up.

Other business developments were generally of an encouraging nature, offsetting the adverse effects of President Roosevelt's revised estimate for a 4-billion dollar federal deficit in the 1939 fiscal year.

Copper circles report increased demand. Increased employment is noted in textiles. Estimates on second-quarter earnings suggest the corporate showing will not be as bad as had been anticipated.

Joining the steels in the van of the further market advance, were the coppers, motors, merchandising shares, auto accessories, and blue chips.

HUGHES ZOOMS TOWARD ALASKA

Arrival in N. Y. Predicted for Tomorrow as Fliers Roar on to Goal.

leg journey, in 10 hours, 29 minutes.

Hughes made as quick a getaway from Yakutsk as he did from Moscow. A well-trained ground crew, organized by the Soviet government, rushed about the task of re-filling the plane's several tanks with hundreds of gallons of gasoline.

Special supplies of food and water, cached long in advance of the flight, were stowed away for the next, and most perilous leg save that from New York to Paris—the journey across the end of Siberia and the Bering Straits to Fairbanks.

Hughes and the crew snatched an opportunity at Yakutsk to take a brief rest.

Veering somewhat to the south of the straight-line distance, the trim silver plane made the flight from Omsk at an average of 207 miles an hour.

Hughes spent four and a half hours at Omsk, while the plane was being refueled and checked, before starting on eastward just as dawn was breaking.

At Yakutsk, Hughes had travelled 8,913 miles of the total of 14,709 which will take him back to Floyd Bennett field, New York.

Only two and a half days out of New York, the two-motored "New York World's Fair 1939" was a full day ahead of the flight schedule set in the record jaunt made by Wiley Post, who girdled the world in 7 days, 18 hours, 49½ minutes.

MOTORS, STEELS FIRM IN QUIET STOCK SESSION

Utilities, Coppers and Oils Fall to Lower Levels; Sugar Issues Up.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Markets shook off their lethargy today and resumed their advance over a broad front. Stocks more than made up losses of the previous session. Sugars and aviations started the rise.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market turned extremely quiet today, as leadesr backed and filled in a narrow and irregular trading range Easier tendencies ruled at the opening in a continuation of yesterday's reaction, but the list steadied almost immediately.

Sustaining factor in the market was the firm tone in motors and steels. Sugar, chemical and aviation shares also ruled generally higher, although a few issues in these groups were backward Rails utilities, coppers and oils were inclined to somewhat lower levels.

Widest price movements were shown by sugars, chemicals and a few blue-chips. South Porto Rico and American Sugar Refining each were up more than a point, while Fajardo spurted better than 2 Union Carbide gained a point, in the chemicals.

CUT-OFF PAVING FACES DELAY

Property Owner's Suit Over Easement Again Threatens Project at Windsor.

The possibility of a further delay in starting work on the Windsor cut-off on route 42 was seen today when a property owner along the proposed route filed an action in common pleas court asking the court to determine the amount of compensation due him for a highway easement on his land.

The action was filed by Anton Reiser, jr., who refused to accept $61 offered by the state highway department several days ago for the easement.

Wrangles over easements for the highway right-of-way and the failure to obtain necessary federal funds for the project have repeatedly delayed work on the cut-off which was started four years ago

Recently, however, obstacles apparently were removed and the highway department accepted bids for construction of the 3 59 miles of road.

Appeal bond for Reiser was set at $100. He is represented in his suit by Atty. Joseph A. Bayer.

VICTORY-MAD CLERK SHOOTS HIS 'RIBBERS'

Ardent Brooklyn Follower Celebrates in Bar Room, Shootings Follow.

ARGUES MERITS OF TEAM

18 Beers Help, but He Can't Convert Giant Fans Who Josh at First Loss.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—A baseball fan who couldn't take it killed one man and wounded another early today. Their offense: They had made remarks reflecting on the professional integrity of certain members of the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National league.

The tragedy occurred in a Brooklyn bar room The slayer was Robert Joyce, 33, a postoffice clerk.

The victims were: Frank Harvey Krug, a clerk in one of the state offices at Albany, N. Y., who was killed by two bullets through the heart, and William J. Diamond, the bartender, who was critically wounded and probably will die.

Chortles Over Triumph.

The trouble started soon after yesterday's game in which the Brooklyn Dodgers, Joyce's favorite team, won a long-sought victory from the New York Giants, their arch foes in the National league. The score was 13-5. The Dodgers, reaching their stride after having taken 10 beatings from the Giants this season, were magnificent in victory and Joyce went to the bar room to chortle.

As nearly anybody could remember, Joyce started the argument by asking what everybody thought of the Dodgers now. He grew more voluble while consuming 18 glasses of beer, but he hadn't converted any Giants' fans to the Dodgers' cause. By 11 o'clock everybody was ribbing him, so he arose from his stool, announcing that he was "going out and get two guns and shoot up this place," and walked out, reeling

Pulls Revolver.

Two hours later, Joyce returned There were a dozen men in the place Joyce stepped to the bar, pulled a revolver from his pocket and shot Diamond.

Several men pounced upon him and bore him to the floor. Joyce wriggled free, arose and took another revolver from his pocket.

Ignoring the others, he forced these two into a back room. Eagan darted into a telephone booth. Krug was trying to crowd in with him, when Joyce began firing again. Two bullets pierced Krug's heart.

Set Aside Aug. 3---It's Soap Box Derby Day

Put a big circle around the Aug. 3 date on your calendar.

That Wednesday is going to be a "red letter" day in Mansfield . . . the day The News-Journal Soap Box Derby will be run off.

While August may seem like a long way off, Derby day is actually only three weeks away.

Three weeks isn't a whole lot of time, and those boys who have not yet entered the racing classic will have to work double time to get their mounts in shape for the big race, which last year attracted more than 15,000 spectators.

The date of the race was tentatively set for Wednesday, July 27, but was changed so as not to conflict with the Richland county fair which opens on that day.

This year's contest will be staged on the Sturges avenue hill, located between Glessner and Cline avenues, the same course that was used last summer.

Entries for the race, which is being staged by The News-Journal in co-operation with the Mohican Chevrolet company and Y. M. C. A., will close in the near future.

Youngsters between the ages of nine and 15 planning to compete in the thrilling race are urged to enter immediately.

Registration blanks may be obtained at the Mohican Chevrolet company and Y. M. C. A. Plans on how to build a car and other important details will be provided on registration.

There is no cost to enter or compete. Only boys in Mansfield and Richland county are eligible.

'All's Well,' Fliers Report as Globe-Girdling Plane Roars on to Goal.

FOG BLANKET AHEAD

Hazardous Flying Looms in Region of Nome; Records Continue to Fall.

(By International News Service)

YAKUTSK, Siberia—Roaring in and out of ancient Yakutsk like the wind from the steppes, Howard Hughes and his four globe-circling companions streaked into the fifth leg of their round-the-world flight today.

The fliers reached here from Omsk at 4:08 a. m. (EST) and hopped off for Fairbanks, Alaska, 2,456 miles away, less than three hours later. It was 7:01 a. m. (EST) when the giant plane started out on the hop that will take the record-breakers back into the western hemisphere.

N. Y. by Late Tomorrow.

(The plane was 275 miles east of Yakutsk at 8:22 o'clock (EST) this morning, according to advices received at the world's fair flight headquarters at New York.)

(At 8:45 a. m. and again at 10:05 a. m. (EST) Hughes' plane was contacted by Perrine's amateur radio station at Hermosa, Cal. The flyer reported, "All's well.")

So far, thanks to Hughes' careful preparations, and closest checking at every stopping point, nothing has gone radically wrong with his "flying laboratory." Maintaining an average of 200 miles an hour, he would wing over the skyscrapers of Manhattan sometime late Thursday.

The weather between Yakutsk and Anadir, on the northeastern coast of Siberia, was good, but fog and rain was reported over the Bering sea between Anadir and Nome, Alaska, one of the most perilous stages of the journey. At Fairbanks itself, however, conditions were expected to be good.

For their well-wishers here, Hughes and his compaions had virtually the entire population of native traders whose ancestors saw slow caravans weave in and out of Yakutsk for centuries.

10-Hour Hop.

Flying at 13,000 to 16,000 feet, high above blasts of icy winds from the Arctic and chill rain squalls, the American aviators made the 2,117-mile journey from Omsk, the fourth hop of their six-

FARMERS FACE HEAVY LOSS IN WHEAT REVENUE

Lower Prices, Reduced Acreage Cut Income From 35 to 50 Per Cent This Year.

With wheat prices down almost a half from last year and wheat acreage reduced in compliance with the federal crop program, Richland county farmers face a reduction of from 35 to 50 per cent in their revenue from the crop they are harvesting this season, figures showed today.

Adding to the farmers' woe is a lighter yield than was anticipated, due to frost damage late in the spring. Although the average yield in the county is expected to be about 15 bushels per acre, approximately the normal production over a 10-year period, farmers in the northern part of the county are predicting a half-crop.

See 60-Cent Wheat.

Despite the federal crop reduction plan, designed to improve the land and stabilize prices, predictions are that wheat will sell for about 60 cents a bushel this year, while in 1937 the price ranged from $1 to $1.20.

Although a record crop, with the yield ranging up to 40 bushels per acre, is forecast for central Ohio, a number of Richland county growers are pessimistic about their yields.

A. C. Fackler, Jackson township, one of the leading wheat growers in the northern half of the county, said his 60 acres would average about 15 bushels per acre.

"That's only about a half crop", he said. "Some of the fields will produce as much as 25 bushels an acre, but others won't yield more than 10 bushels."

Roy Kirkpatrick, another Jackson township farmer, said his average yield on 18 acres would be about 15 bushels per acre, less than last year's crop.

"Straw is in better shape this year, but late frosts damaged the grain and the heads are short and contain fewer kernels," he added.

Farmers in the southern half of the county were more optimistic ,asserting that their crop will be "about average."

Henry Bachus, Monroe township, expects to thresh from 15 to 25 bushels per acre from his farm, but added that the lower price will cut his income below last year's figure.

Wheat to be cut with binders is virtually all in the shock and threshing will begin by the end of this week, farmers said.

"Wheat yields throughout the state will be about 19 bushels per acre, about the average for the past 10 years," Elmer S. Kruse, chairman of the state agricultural conservation committee, said at Columbus.

The best yield reported so far is 40 bushels per acre in Marion county, Kruse said. He expected the harvest in the state to be completed by Aug. 1.

Fist Swinger Throws Dem Rally In Uproar

Metzenbaum's Foe Puts Up Dukes During Digs At Davey Regime.

(By International News Service)

FREMONT—Sandusky county Democrats today swept up the embers of a box of political fireworks that exploded and came close to disrupting a party rally and ox roast here.

The chief speakers on the program, Governor Davey, former Senator James Metzenbaum, of Cleveland, and Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, pulled no verbal punches. In addition, the rally came close to seeing physical combat.

Metzenbaum, candidate for lieutenant governor, drew a fist-swinging attack from Harry J. Halper, of Akron, another candidate for the office, when Metzenbaum charged that a "horde of shakedown artists moved into Columbus on the heels of Davey."

Halper, appointed to the housing administration by Davey, rushed at Metzenbaum, pushed him from the microphone, and swung at him. His blows did not

PICKS NAME FOR NEW SCHOOL AS DRIVE STARTS

School Board Chooses 'Johnny Appleseed'—Campaign for Bonds Under Way.

Selecting the name "Johnny Appleseed Junior high school" for the proposed new school building at Cline avenue and Wood street, the Mansfield board of education and P. T. A. groups last night laid the groundwork for a vigorous campaign to obtain approval of a $550,000 bond issue at the August primary.

Nearly 80 P. T. A. committee members, school officials and representatives of civic organizations set up the campaign program at a session in the Chamber of Commerce rooms after hearing of the need for added school facilities in the city.

The name for the proposed building was chosen by the school board which expressed the belief it would be helpful to the building plan to have at least an emblem to indicate what the board is working for.

Start Drive at Once.

The campaign in behalf of the building plan will be launched immediately and will be carried to every home in the city, it was decided last night. As a climax to the drive, the city's school children will march in a parade through the city Aug. 5, carrying banners promoting the bond issue. Patrolman Frend C. Boals was named chairman of the parade committee.

Meanwhile, P. T. A. organizations will hold special meetings at which school board members or Supt. W. L. Miller will outline the building program.

The first of the series of P. T. A meetings will be held at 7:30 p. m Thursday at the West Fifth street school. Speakers will be Supt. Miller, H. W. Arlin, president of the school board, Mrs. F. D. Boals, president of the P. T. A. council, and Rev. Grover Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church.

Thomas, Roosevelt's 'Good Friend', Wins

(By United Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY—Senator Elmer Thomas, New Deal liberal, whom President Roosevelt called his "good friend" during his cross-country tour here Saturday, held a commanding lead over two opponents in his campaign for renomination today, with more than half the votes from yesterday's primary tabulated.

Thomas took an early lead over his closest rival, Rep Gomer Smith, and held it throughout the night. Gov. E. W. Marland, also running on a New Deal platform, was third, far behind Thomas and Smith

Returns from 2,487 precincts of 3,522 gave for U. S. senator: Marland 73,544; Thomas 158,379; Gomer Smith 118,321; Charles F. Smith 2,141

Murray Trailing.

William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray was third in the race for governor. He trailed W. S Key, former state WPA administrator, and Leon C. Phillips.

Returns from 2551 precincts gave Phillips 119,803; Kep 111,607; Murray 99,388.

In the Republican primary the candidates endorsed by the Republican state convention appeared certain of winning the nominations for governor and senator. Ross Rizley was the state convention's candidate for governor, and Harry Glasser was the group's candidate for senator.

SPEAKS 3 TIMES

ABOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S SPECIAL TRAIN, EN ROUTE TO SAN FRANCISCO—(U P)—President Roosevelt, nearing the end of his trans-continental tour in behalf of "liberal" candidates, will make three appearances today in Nevada where Senator Pat McCarran is seeking reelection.

McCarran has been one of the leading anti-administration Democrats in the senate. It was not expected that Mr. Roosevelt would mention McCarran as one of the "forward looking" senators whom he would prefer to have in Washington

All of Mr. Roosevelt's addresses in Nevada will be made from the rear platform of his train.

DIES TONIGHT

Kidnap-Killer of Ross Spends Last Day Watching Ponies.

CHICAGO—(INS)—John Henry Seadlund, doomed to die in the electric chair shortly after midnight tonight for the kidnap-murder of Charles Ross, wealthy Chicago manufacturer, was spending his last hours of earth today making imaginary bets on horse races—unmindful that it was betting that betrayed him to G-men.

Seadlund, arrested Jan. 14, at the betting window of the Santa Anita race track in Californias as he tried to wager some of the $50,000 ransom, placed imaginary 50-cent bets ever day, it was disclosed. If he picks the right horses, he is gleeful.

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Delia Seadlund, of Ironton, Minn., Seadlund wrote: "Mother, I'm anxious for that harp." He also wrote he would be glad to join in heaven his father and his dog.

Firemen Give First Aid, Pry Open Woman's Locked Jaws.

ALTON, Ill.—(AP)—Firemen were called on to meet a new emergency when a young woman stopped her automobile in front of a fire station and motioned that her jaws had become locked.

The fire fighters didn't hesitate. They inserted a pencil between the woman's teeth, applied pressure to joints of the jawbones—and opened her jaws She thanked them and drove away.

HEAT BREAKS UP

Rain Due Tonight, Thursday to Be Fair, Cooler.

Despite the weatherman's prediction yesterday that today would be "warmer" the six-day heat wave appeared to be broken so far as Mansfield was concerned, and the forecast predicted rain and cooler weather for tonight and tomorrow.

Observer Otto Sprunger reported a noon reading of 83, five degrees under yesterday's high of 88, and the forecast said there would be thundershowers tonight and generally fair and cooler weather tomorrow. Skies were overcast today.

Last night's low was 61 and the average for 24 hours was less than a degree above normal.

SURROUND PLANT

200 Pickets on Duty In Portsmouth Shoe Strike.

PORTSMOUTH—(AP)—Two hundred pickets surrounded the downtown plant of the Selby Shoe company today following a strike call by the United Shoe Workers union (CIO).

While police stood guard, a few workers entered the huge plant when the 7 a m. shift started, but there was no disturbance.

SHANGHAI —(U P)— Japanese planes renewed their bombings today while ground forces again smashed at the Chinese lines around Kiukiang, a key city in the defense of Hankow.

For the second time in two days the bombers swept over Canton, largest commercial city in southern China.

At 8.30 a. m. 24 of them dropped 20 bombs in the vicinity of government buildings

RECORD HIGH

U. S. Steps Up Spending to $24,890,000 Per Day.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government stepped up its spending pace today to the record peacetime average of $24,890,000 a day ordered by President Roosevelt. This is $3,613,000 a day more than last year's average

The president revised his January budget estimates for the fiscal year which began July 1 in order to account for the emergency relief and public works programs. He calculated the treasury would collect only $5 for every $9 it spent, piling up a deficit of about $4,000,000,000.

Mr Roosevelt indicated a belief that business would improve enough to taper off the relief load in March.

SCOFFS AT DEM PRIMARY SPLIT

Kallmerten Claims Anyone Who Talks About It Must Be 'Seeing Ghosts.'

Anyone who talks about a split in the Democratic party in the Richland county primary "must be seeing ghosts," County Executive Chairman E. B. Kallmerten said today.

His statement was made in reply to one made yesterday by G. A. Baer, a former executive committee chairman, now heading a committee backing Charles Sawyer for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination Aug. 9. Sawyer is opposing Gov. Martin L. Davey

Stating flatly "I am for Governor Davey and I should be," Kallmerten said that anyone who saw a possibility of a split in the party, "should know that the primary is a process of elimination and it is the right of each individual under the law to vote as he pleases. I reserve that same right

WORKMEN CLASH

30 Injured as Rival Unions Riot in Coast Town.

WESTWOOD, Cal.—(U P)—More than 30 men were injured today in rioting between two union factions.

Two thousand men fought in the main street of Westwood in which the strike-bound Red River Lumber company is located.

The rioting began when several hundred members of the Industrial Employes union attacked a Committee for Industrial Organization picket line about the lumber company.

The pickets were driven off, but CIO reinforcements soon arrived and the fighting became general.

Fire hoses were turned on by police in an effort to halt the fighting and streams of water were poured into the CIO ranks. The police were over-powered.

Barbara Cancels Threat Charges; Plans For Divorce

LONDON — (U.P.) — A threats charge against Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, which shocked London society and marked the wreck of his marriage to Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow, was withdrawn by mutual consent today at Bow street police court.

In withdrawing the charge, Sir Patrick Hastings, chief counsel for the $40 000,000 Woolworth five-and-ten-cent store heiress, announced that the count had given an undertaking not to communicate with her in any way.

It was expected that the countess would take steps at once to sue in the Danish courts for a separation and eventually for a divorce.

She had withdrawn her charge that the count threatened her, that he threatened to "shoot like a dog" a man distinguished in London society of whom he had become jealous; that he demanded $5 000,000 and their child as the price of a separation.

In doing so, she had kept out of the records the name of the man whom the count, according to testimony of William M. Mitchelgl, another of her lawyers, threatened to shoot.

Files $400,000 Suit, Charges 3 Alienists With Conspiracy

Mrs. Mary Hautzenroeder, 23 Benton street, today had filed suit in Columbus, asking $400,000 damages from operators of three sanitaria, charging they conspired with her late husband, Charles Hautzenroder, to keep her in an institution in 1934.

Dispatches from Columbus said Mrs. Hautzenroder had named Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Tarbell, operators of Glen Rest sanitarium, near Worthington; Dr. George T. Harding, operator of Harding sanitarium at Worthington and Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, of White Oak farm, Marion.

Mrs. Hautzenroeder's suit alleges that her husband took her to Dr. Sawyer's sanitarium in March, 1934, and that when she refused to become reconciled with her husband, she was chained to a bed and drugged.

Later, she charged, she was taken to Dr. Tarbell's sanitarium, where she complains she was treated "very cruelly," dispatches said.

In April, the suit says, she was locked in a room at Glen Rest, and charges that Dr. Harding and the other defendants conspired to have her declared insane. The entry finding her insane was expunged from court records in 1935, the suit says.

She was later taken to the Columbus state hospital, but released 12 days later when physicians there could find nothing wrong with her, she said.

Mrs. Hautzenroeder claims that her incarceration caused her to lose her home and investments because she was prevented from managing her business affairs.

Atty Frank S Culp of Mansfield is counsel for Mrs. Hautenroeder, dispatches said.

ACTS TO OBTAIN RIGHT OF WAY ON ROWLAND

Mayor Takes Steps Looking Toward Eventual Building of West-Side Viaduct.

After years of waiting and a great deal of talking—it at last begins to look like Mansfield might get a Rowland avenue viaduct.

At least the first step towards obtaining the span to benefit the north side of the city was taken today by Mayor Claude M. Hunter.

The mayor, who told council at its first meeting this year that the owner of the property, of his own accord had agreed to deed the land to the city should they decide to consider the project, said today that a movement was under way to obtain the property.

Orders Negotiations.

He said he had instructed Glenn Weller, city-WPA engineer to communicate with the owner of the land, which lies between Rowland avenue and Reed street, to see what means could be taken to obtain the property.

It was explained that this step was taken so that the project might be considered "in the near future." Hunter said he hardly thought it advisable to go ahead with the project until a clear title had been granted the city.

He pointed out that should the city be unable to finance the construction of the span within the next two years, that grant to the property would allow for the building of at least a roadway from the north side of the city.

The property now owned by an Akron man lies between Rowland avenue and Reed street through which the Baltimore and Ohio and the Erie railroads have right of ways.

It is by reason of the fact that the railroads run through, the property that a viaduct to connect the streets has been talked about for years with George Kyle, Third ward councilman as one of the strongest advocates.

Hunter said it appeared likely that some method of construction with federal aid would be necessary in order to build the structure.

LEGION MEETS AT CRESTLINE

Post Hears Report on Fifth District Convention; Delegates Named.

CRESTLINE — L. C. Hipsher gave a report of the Fifth district convention of the American Legion held recently at Mansfield at the regular meeting of McWhirter post in their club rooms Monday evening.

Reports of their experiences at the Boys' State camp at Columbus were also related by the two Crestline boys who attended, Wilbur Hoover and Jack Poole. The boys' fathers, Edgar Poole and Vance Hoover, also highly praised the camp. Mr. Poole had visited there while his son was at the camp.

During the routine business A. C. Smith was elected a delegate to the state Legion convention at Cincinnati, July 24, 25, 26.

Commander Paul Kindinger was nominated as a delegate but declined the nomination since he has many plans to attend the national Legion convention in California later.

YOUTH ADMITS THEFT

A 15-year-old youth who only a month ago was paroled from the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster was released to his parents today after he had admitted to police the theft of a case of empty pop bottles from a downtown filling station. He was taken into custody yesterday when a resident of West Dickson avenue found him in his garage.

cratic nomination to the U. S. senate, questioned the good taste of President Roosevelt in giving Senator Robert J. Bulkley a "pat on the back" in the president's recent Marietta speech.

At the meeting Mr. Roosevelt addressed White only in his opening remarks to the former governor as chairman.

"But when, upon my invitation," White said, "the president addresses a meeting in my home town, which was non-partisan, patriotic and civic, and uses that opportunity to single out his 'yes man,' Senator Bulkley, from the platform on which I presided as chairman, I leave it to the discriminating people of Ohio as to whether he exercised good taste."

Sawyer launched an attack on the Davey administration and told the crowd that if he were elected he would be governor of a different kind than Davey.

"If you approve the Davey record of the last four years and want two more, nominate him," Sawyer said. "If you want a change, I'll show you what I can do."

The governor said that he agreed with Sawyer that there would be a change should the Cincinnatian be elected. Nobody in Ohio, Davey said, knew what Sawyer stood for.

"Nobody knows what he is against except that he is against Davey. He wants you to buy a pig in a poke, while everybody knows how I stand on public questions," Davey charged.

Attacking Metzenbaum, Davey said: "It never occurred to me when I accepted this invitation, that the governor of Ohio would be insulted by a whippersnapper."

"I'll tell you about this fellow Metzenbaum," Davey said. "He expects to see his name in the paper tomorrow. That's why he is here. He poses as a righteous fellow but tries to slip things over."

Metzenbaum, the governor charged, tried to get the state commerce director to drop action against a "slippery" Cleveland security house he represented, showing that he (Metzenbaum) "was willing to represent a crooked outfit for money."

Davey also referred to the senate investigating committee, for which Metzenbaum was attorney, as a "Stalin committee."

Metzenbaum declared he had been asked before the meeting to "soft-pedal" his attacks on the governor, as the crowds were largely pro-Davey. A number of state employes were in the crowd attending the rally.

GIVES RECITAL

GALION — A recital of piano numbers will be given Friday night at the Senior high school auditorium by Teddy Rehl, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rehl of West Church street. Teddy has some 15 pieces in his repertoire. Bessie Todd is presenting him as her pupil.

A silver offering at the door will be taken to add to the concert grand piano fund at the high school.

LANDS ANOTHER BIG CONTRACT

Westinghouse Gets $1,700,000 Order From Railroad for Electrical Equipment.

While the Mansfield plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company prepared to start work on an order for 25,000 electric irons, another division of the company announced today it had received contracts for $1,700,000 in electrical equipment.

The equipment will be used in building 10 new 100-mile-an-hour locomotives for the Pennsylvania railroad, dispatches from Pittsburgh said. The new locomotives will run between Harrisburg, Pa., New York and Washington.

Three plants will share in the building of the major portion of the equipment. The East Pittsburgh plant will make the motors and control units; the Sharon, Pa., plant, the transformers; and the Newark, N. J., unit, the sensitive relaying equipment.

After assembly in the factories, the equipment will be sent to Altoona, Pa., for installation in locomotive chassis. The company estimated that a total of 600,000 man-hours would be required for the work.

The 25,000 iron order which was placed with the Mansfield plant by Consolidated Edison company of New York, will provide 40,000 man-hours of work here, company officials said.

February Spurt Fails to Keep Traffic Tag Income Up to '37

Are Mansfield motorists becoming more traffic conscious—or are police less vigilant than they were four months ago?

In spite of an intensive campaign against traffic violators during February, a survey of traffic tag collections today showed that the revenues for the first half of the year were more than $100 below the collections for the corresponding period of 1937.

During the first six months of this year the dollars paid at the traffic bureau for those little yellow tags totaled $2,277, a decrease of $121 from the total of $2,398 for the same period in 1937.

The decrease was the more notable because during February collections soared to $819, nearly twice the collection for the same month in 1937.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said at the time that there was no "campaign" on, but that officers were paying more attention to "flagrant disregard" for city traffic ordinances. He also commented "we have to pay for some additional patrolmen."

Since February, however, collections dropped every month, reaching a low of $178 in May, but climbing in June to $250.

In June of 1937, a total of $473 was collected.

NUMBERS CASE TRIAL TUESDAY

Two Accused Men to Face Jury in Municipal Court on 'Not Guilty' Pleas.

Two accused "numbers writers," one charged with selling tickets in a scheme of chance and the other for promoting the game will be tried before a jury in municipal court at 10 a. m. next Tuesday.

The men are Nick Poulos, 50, of 144 North Diamond street, and John Dadlis, 41, of 170 North Mulberry street, who were among the five arrested by police July 2. The other three plead guilty to charges of selling tickets and were fined a total of $200 and costs.

The two will be the first lottery cases to be heard by jury in municipal court since September, 1936.

Motion for the jury trial was filed by Attorney George Biddle, following a continuance when the pair pleaded not guilty to the charges. Poulos is charged with promoting a scheme of chance and Dadlis with selling tickets in a scheme of chance.

When police arrested the men they said they found several partly used policy books in their possession while at an Elm street address, which officers allege was the headquarters of the group, they confiscated a carton of new books.

51 WITNESSES CALLED, GRAND JURY CONVENES

Will Consider 11 Cases, Three of Them Involving Deaths in Traffic Accidents.

At least 11 cases, three involving fatal automobile accidents in the Mansfield area, were to be presented to the county grand jury today by Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott.

Fifty-one witnesses were subpoenaed to appear during the jury session which was expected to end late today or early Thursday.

The jury was scheduled to hear manslaughter charges against Richard Strohminger, 19, Mansfield, driver of a car which figured in a fatal accident June 11 on Lexington avenue. Miss Ada Kovachy, Cleveland, was killed in the crash.

Two Other Cases.

Also to go before the jury were witnesses in accidents in which Mrs. Wilbur Wilson, Mansfield, and William Greifenstein, Ontario, were killed. Charges have not been filed in either case.

Mrs. Wilson was killed 10 days ago when a truck in which she was riding with Aubrey Wilson, 27, Indianapolis, Ind., crashed into a tree near Crestline. Wilson, who was not related to the victim, is held in the county jail.

Clyde Bowersock, 21, of near Ashland, driver of a car which struck and killed Mr. Greifenstein July 3 at Ontario, was questioned in connection with the death, but Prosecutor Marriott said he would let the grand jury determine responsibility for the accident.

Jurors were to hear charges of breaking and entering against two brothers who escaped from the Mansfield reformatory May 21 and robbed the home of Jefferson Smith in Mifflin township.

The youths, Rodney Stanley, 20, and Raymond Stanley, 18, were captured later in Canton following a robbery there and are held in that city. They also face the customary two-year sentence for escaped inmates of the reformatory.

Other cases to be presented to the jury include those of Essie Price Brown, colored, accused of cutting with intent to wound; Homer Reid, issuing checks with insufficient funds; Mark Sankey, pointing firearms; Jevons Zalinsky, breaking and entering; Thomas Cantrell, colored, breaking and entering; and Bernice Whitt, grand larceny.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

LITTLE BROWN HANDS

WE parked our car along the curb in the business section of a little country town on Saturday night, and watched the people move along the street.

The farmers were in town to do their weekly shopping. They had brought their children of all ages, from babies in arms to grown-up gangling lads and giggling, blushing lasses. The smaller children scurried in and out, looking curiously into shop windows and parked cars, or pausing back to get another glimpse of something they had passed, unmindful of where they walked.

I saw a country woman, middle-aged and worn from overwork. Her hands were large and hard, her face and arms were darkly tanned from working in the field. She led four prattling children, two boys on one side, two girls on the other, and when she looked at them, her face was beautiful.

One little girl had a patch upon her dress, the other wore a longer garment not her own. The boys had faded waists and short knee pants of last year's purchase, with patches on the seat. But all were clean and starchily [illegible]

The little necks and faces were almost black with tan but their eyes snapped and sparkled with interest and health and mischief. They were alert, awake and enjoying the present moment to the fullest.

Soon this country woman's tasks will be a little lighter. She has four reasons for hope and happiness. She is laboring hard and long early and late, teaching her children the value of honest toil, to work until a task is finished, to know well how to do many homely, useful things; to show an interest in each others welfare, to know the luxury of well-earned rest when evening comes.

The pencil the circle the pen and the compass she is carried [illegible] in the little brown hands.

MAKE ME YOUR DENTIST

WHY FALSE TEETH WEARERS HAVE BAD BREATH

Millions Suffer Without Knowing!

You can't notice any odor from your plate or bridge—but others can! Dentists call this odor "denture breath" and it's serious. It comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum is almost invisible—but it can make your breath so bad that friends shudder. It can breed decay-bacteria that infect your other teeth, actually hurt your health and spoil your pleasure.

Ordinary brushing can't get this scum off plate or bridge—can't protect you against "denture breath." But just try Polident! Polident not only cleans—it actually purifies plates and bridges without brushing. It gets every bit of scum, tarnish, stain and odor—dissolves it away and leaves your plate sweet and clean as new.

Your breath will be fresher, your mouth feel cleaner—and your plate last longer and look better. Polident is approved by dental authorities. Good Housekeeping and tens of thousands of delighted users. Long-lasting can costs only 30¢ at any drug store.

POLIDENT Cleans, Purifies Like Magic

Put plate or bridge in ¼ glass of water. Add a little Polident powder. Leave in 10 to 15 minutes—rinse—and it's sweet and purified—ready to use.

CITY ACTS TO BORROW UNDER NEW RELIEF ACT

Files Request With State Tax Board Asking Authority to Issue $8,000 in Bonds.

With the authorization of council, City Auditor Paul L Kelley acted to take advantage of the new state relief act which permits the city to borrow against anticipated 1939 sales tax receipts

Kelley said a request had been filed in Columbus with the state tax commission seeking authority to issue $8,000 in bonds, the amount allotted Mansfield by the legislature out of the $1,500 000 to be set aside in next year's sales tax receipts for relief purposes

Under the plan the city would receive $8,000 from the state next year from sales tax receipts to retire the bonds The legislation permits a loan up to 90 per cent of the allotment for each county the other 10 per cent going to meet interest charges

Enough For 21 Days.

At the present rate of distribution of relief in Mansfield it is expected that the $8.000 will meet relief costs for 21 days, Kelley said

Of the numerous relief programs set up by the state, the borrowing against future sales tax receipts so far has been the only plan that the city has been able to participate in, Kelley pointed out Other plans to provide relief funds call for matching of funds, and because the city has none available for this purpose, it is unable to share in this program.

He said the only funds the city receives now for relief purposes is approximately $5,000 allocated by the state monthly for administrative purposes, while food bills have been totalling $12,000 monthly.

Charges Water Flows Into Home, Sues For $2,500

Carl H Stander, 475 Marion avenue, had been named defendant today in a $2,500 damage and injunction suit filed in common pleas court by John A. McCue, 33 West First street

In his action, McCue contends that surface water which flows onto his property from adjoining lots owned by Stander has damaged the cellar under his house and made the house unsafe for occupancy. In addition to damages, he asks that Stander be enjoined from permitting the excess water to flow onto the McCue property.

The plaintiff's petition states that Stander filled and graded his lots so as to change their elevation and cause the water flow to change.

The excess water has left deposits of silt in his cellar and caused his home to be damp and filled with an unpleasant odor, McCue asserts.

Attys. John C. O Donnell and Raymond J. Brown represent McCue.

WHAT LIES IN THE FUTURE FOR PRINCESS BABS?

Despite Riches, Hutton Heiress Is One of World's Most Unhappy Women.

This is the last of six articles on the life of Countess Barbara Hutton von Haugwitz-Reventlow by Helen Welshimer, well-known writer

By HELEN WELSHIMER

NEW YORK CITY — Barbara Hutton is 26 She made her debut at the Ritz Carlton, in New York, at 18 Before that almost nothing was known of her, she had been reared in strict seclusion, a child cut off from life.

But in the eight years since she has realized and lost many brittle dreams She had a $60.000 coming out party, she traveled around in private railroad cars, she met and married a dashing, polo-playing Georgian prince, she had a "royal" wedding in Paris Riviera winters, Lido summers a Reno divorce, a Danish count, many homes, a son who inherits a title

Today, after that madly ordered eight years, Babs Hutton probably is one of the most harried, most wretched women alive. Each day's cables bring fresh evidence of the almost tragic wreckage of the dreams of this too-rich little girl Her first husband dead, killed in his own car at 80 miles an hour, her second husband is publicly described as a man of uncontrollable temper and irrational conduct who terrified her with threats of bodily harm when he believed she looked with longing eyes on another man of title

Title Chaser?

Rumors of Babs' interest in a third title-bearing European have revived the accusation that she is a title chaser But title chasing is just another form of escaping from reality Has Babs been running away from the memory of her humble family origins and her nickel-and-dime fortune?

She has plenty of worthwhile reality to return to if she wearies of pursuing phantoms More than 75,000 men and girls pound the cash registers and wrap the parcels in the red and gilt faced stores that founded her $40 000 000 fortune The average pay is from $14 to $16 a week

On Dec 16 last pickets paraded before Woolworth stores with the sign "We like the United States, but we want more pay—Babs with our money runs away

Escapes U. S. Taxes.

She had done just that She had returned to the United States, stayed only a few hours, until the next boat back In that brief interval she had signed away her American citizenship Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow may have insisted on that step and perhaps Babs Hutton may yet return to her native land, taxes or no taxes But at best that will be some time away

It doesn't look as though Barbara Hutton will extricate herself from her present troubles very soon Even with the present trial of the count on charges of intimidation and blackmail cleared away, a divorce trial is ahead and, almost certainly a bitter struggle for the custody of two-year-old Lance, the comely child whose birth nearly cost Barbara Hutton her life But the child's interests are protected since Babs' lawyers, most expensive in England, had him made a ward of a British court till he is 21

"Thank God Lance isn't old enough to read the newspapers," the Woolworth heiress exclaimed in London the other day

Guards Surround Estate.

Babs has arranged protection for herself as well as her son Villa Winfield, her palatial London home, is surrounded by private armed guards and Scotland Yard is keeping watch over her What emotions is she experiencing within this great, guarded residence where her love lies dead?

What next for Barbara Hutton? With youth and health and the opportunities of great wealth at her disposal, can she retrace her steps and turn to a life of reality and usefulness? Or will her dreams still haunt her?

What next?

THE END.

STRESSES ADVERTISING'S MAJOR ROLE IN DISTRIBUTING PRODUCTS

The important part which advertising plays in national distribution of the products of industry was disclosed at Tuesday's Rotary club meeting by Paul W Endriss, in charge of refrigeration advertising for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company

Methods by which national magazine advertising is used in connection with local newspaper advertising were explained, as was also the plans under which large industries co-operate with retail dealers and keep in contact with prospective business in all parts of the country

With 28,000,000 homes in the United States wired for electricity, each is regarded as a prospect for additional electrical equipment, Endriss explained. He also said that it has been the policy of Westinghouse to continue a practically uncurtailed program of advertising through the present depression period, with no letup in sales efforts or in the popularizing of Westinghouse products

C G Hillier was chairman of the meeting, at which R D. Iden, president of the club, presided.

W L Miller, retiring president, was presented with a fishing outfit, intended to encourage his ambitions to become a disciple of Izaak Walton. A M. Colby did the presenting

It was announced that presidents and secretaries of the 157th Rotary district will meet in Mansfield Tuesday, July 26, with the new district governor, Charles Hoot, of Orrville, in charge. Sessions will be at Westbrook Country club.

Next week's meeting is to be held jointly with the Kiwanis club on Tuesday, with golf in the afternoon and bridge in the evening

The birthday anniversary of T. J Hanley was given special recognition at Tuesday's meeting, with the suggestion that Tom apparently grows a year younger at each birthday.

A Product That Is Not Forgotten.

REASONS which impelled such a big industry as Westinghouse to sustain its national and dealer-cooperation advertising during the recent period of "dull business" are worthy of consideration by others who have something to sell.

This subject was interestingly discussed at yesterday's Rotary meeting by Paul Endriss, of the Westinghouse advertising staff. Behind the circumstance of temporarily reduced sales is the fact that 28,000,000 homes in America are wired for electric current and that each of these is a potential customer for additional electrical equipment of various kinds.

Whether or not immediate purchases could be made, prospective customers were forming impressions, and even making decisions, in regard to merchandise available—and which they planned to buy at the earliest possible moment.

So it was, that in national magazines and local newspapers, the name "Westinghouse" appeared without interruption—serving the immediate purpose of stimulating sales to those able to buy and also carrying convincing sales messages to millions of others who would later be in position to satisfy their wants.

It was an attitude of optimism and confidence in the future, rather than indication of the pessimism and fear which have been contributing factors in bringing on and extending the depression.

In at least a small way, the advantages of such a program of consistent advertising is seen in yesterday's announcement of an order for 25,000 electric irons coming to Westinghouse from one eastern distributor—the largest single iron order received in the past four years.

Keeping in mind that Mansfield is the merchandising headquarters for Westinghouse, as well as an important production point, advantages that may be expected to accrue to this city from the company's wise policy of sustained advertising make this a subject of lively local interest.

Radio Equality for Candidates.

THE Federal Communications Commission has announced its rules regulating the broadcasting of political speeches. Such regulations were required by an act of congress four years ago.

Under the regulations all candidates for office, of whatever political party, are to enjoy equal facilities for broadcasting. There is to be no censorship of speeches. Broadcasting stations are required to keep and permit public inspection of all requests for broadcast time, together with appropriate notations regarding the disposition of requests and the rates charged if they are granted.

The same rates must be charged all candidates for the same office, without direct or indirect rebates. No contracts are permitted which have the effect of excluding any qualified candidate. A qualified candidate is defined as one who has met the requirements prescribed by local, state or federal law.

This seems to clear up the matter as to "rights" of candidates. Listeners, however, still retain the "right" to tune out any political speech that becomes tiresome.

Another Famous Exile.

THE German government does its people another ill turn. It deprives Erich Maria Remarque of his citizenship. Remarque, most Americans know, is a noted German pacifist and author. His two books about the World war, "All Quiet on the Western Front" and "The Road Back," are ranked as two of the finest and truest books about that conflict. They have been translated into several languages.

Remarque was not always a pacifist. He served as a German private in the great war, although he was only 18 years old when it ended. He learned at first hand the horrible inhumanity of war, and the truth that soldiers, no matter what their uniform, were only men—or boys—like himself, hating the slaughter, suffering spiritual wounds more lasting than those inflicted by the enemy's weapons.

Because he has written of the human suffering of war rather than of one nation's heroism, he is no longer considered a patriot, his service for his country is disregarded, he is exiled.

These banishments of men like Albert Einstein, Thomas Mann and Erich Remarque reveal more about the present German government and its "ideology" than anything its propagandists can say for it or its enemies can say against it.

War-Depression Cycle.

GREAT BRITAIN'S housing problem, just after the World war and in more recent years, has interested Americans greatly because of its practical success. Low cost housing on a large scale provided both needed dwellings and needed employment. That picture is changing today.

E. G. Hicks, labor member of parliament and president of the National Federation of Building Trades, announced recently that building has been seriously slowed down, with a consequent marked rise in unemployment in that and allied industries. He attributed the slump to the refusal of insurance companies to write policies covering the risk of damage by enemy aircraft. He wants the government to do something about it.

This is the sort of vicious circle that war creates. The World war stopped house building until there was a serious shortage of dwellings. An enlightened program begins to overcome that shortage and produce employment and homes and prosperity, but fear of the next war intervenes and stops the process.

Doubtless there are some honest politicians—or at least some that were honest before they got into politics.

The Chinese invented gunpowder—and see what a mess it's got 'em into.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

WAS it a mistake for the eastern railroads to ask for increased coach fares—and to be given a one-half-cent increase to two and one-half cents?

We now shall see.

I have an automobile (as have millions of other people), but I enjoy riding on trains (which cannot be said of millions of other people).

The modern train is unusually comfortable, is unsurpassed anywhere else in the world. But a large part of the public hardly knows it. Many of the younger generation never have traveled by train. (What they have missed!) Top railroad executives seem poor psychologists, poor salesmen.

Their engineers, their traffic men do wonders (even with little money) — but little advantage seems to be taken of this. Oh, there are advertisements. But there could be better advertisements.

And the top executives themselves always are speaking of the poverty of the railroads, always asking for more money (higher rates) or for loans in order to keep up their properties. All of that has the effect of driving away business. No motorist will take a highway which he has heard is bad, needs repairs.

* * *

TOO MUCH INTEREST

As a matter of fact, railroads are paying too much interest out on bonds. This money diverted to upkeep and renovization might restore the properties. What is the good of further loans, particularly government loans? The drain on the roads, for interest, simply would be increased.

There is a movement afoot now for roads to get together with their bondholders to reduce their interest expenditures. Some persons even advocate a congressional fiat that railroads suspend interest payments altogether for a period and put the money into upkeep and equipment.

Loud cries have gone up that this would deprive insurance companies of heavy returns. Not nearly so much as having the roads go into bankruptcy, wiping out or reducing equities. A moratorium on interest would increase the value of equities, in that the properties would be built up again.

Even the wealthy railroads suspend maintainence expenditures in order to keep up with interest payments, one writer points out. Think what this does to decrease earning power of workers and equipment manufacturers.

* * *

NOT HOPEFUL

The new actions of the railroads are not hopeful for gaining more passenger business. Not only are coach fares being raised, but Pullman charges also.

And, on the majority of railroads, dining car prices are too high for the average person.

Is it any wonder that the automobile and the roadside inn continue to be in favor with travelers by the millions?

THE BRANDING SEASON

Roosevelt Gets 'Breaks' on Tour

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt certainly does get the "breaks" with astonishing persistency.

Republicans were hopeful that his transcontinental speaking tour would prove disappointing to him. Recalling that President Wilson had exceedingly poor luck with his attempt to influence the immediate post-war congressional primaries and election, they argued that the present White House tenant's campaign might result similarly.

Anti-New Deal Democrats, naturally preferring not to be "purged," also did their best to reason that the current presidential trip would turn out to be a fizzle.

There were New Dealers, too, who looked askance upon the expedition. They wished it well, but were afraid it would split the party.

* * *

A SATISFACTORY TOUR.

As a matter of fact, it is developing highly satisfactorily to the president. At least, it appears to be doing so. Enthusiasm seems to be unbounded. Democratic headquarters offices are all smiles—genuine ones.

Republican headquarters' functionaries admit nothing, but they look glum.

Anti-New Deal Democrats have no headquarters, and anti-New Deal senators and representatives mostly are at home, scrambling to be renominated. However, nearly all of them have their individual offices, still open, up on Capitol Hill, manned by staffs of secretaries et al, and these dependents are pessimistic.

* * *

A "CORKING" CAMPAIGNER.

For one thing, "F. D. R." is recognized as a corking campaigner, with a relatively weak battery to oppose him. I do not mean to say that he has a monopoly of basic statesmanship, but his 'appeal" far outclasses his entire combined opposition.

Alf M. Landon, for example, says so. He contends that he can talk more sense than "F. D.", but owns that he cannot do it so convincingly.

Senators Glass of Virginia, Wheeler of Montana, George of Georgia, Bailey of North Carolina, Tydings of Maryland, yes, and Vice President Garner, are as tried-and-true lawmakers as anybody, but no one of them has "F. D.'s" gift of oratory, or his flair for national politics—local politics, maybe, but not national.

* * *

TOO LOCAL?

Illustratively, Garner (perhaps the strongest of the anti-New Deal group) undoubtedly is strong in the south, but the remainder of the country could not be counted on to be more than lukewarmly enthusiastic over him.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan probably would "take" well in his neighborhood, but he is not even well known nationally.

Same way with such folk as Senators George and Bailey and Adams and McCarran. They are all right per se, but they are only local.

The president signifies everywhere.

* * *

ON F. D. R.'s SIDE.

Another thing:

"F. D." started his tour with business on the upturn.

That is an accident. His policies may have been responsible for the improvement, but he certainly could not have foreseen that the boost and the beginning of his tour would have synchronized.

That was just pure Roosevelt luck—nothing else.

* * *

MORE DIFFICULT LATER?

There is this to be taken into consideration:

The president's trip thus far has been into the west—naturally radical territory.

Coming back he will visit the more conservative bailiwicks of Senators Smith and George and Bailey of the Carolinas and Georgia. It may not be so New Dealerish a realm as farther western territory he has visited.

* * *

A PREDICTION.

As a prediction:

The New Deal Democrats will lose some congressional seats to Republicans at the November election.

But the New Dealers will win some seats from anti-New Deal Democrats.

Previous anti-New Deal Democrats have been, in effect, Republicans.

Sort that out.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

More Blocs---Each with Price.

By HARLEY L. LUTZ,
Professor of Public Finance, Princeton University.

It is sometimes suggested that we should have a number of political parties. The argument is that the American people, as individuals, hold widely varying opinions on matters of public policy, and that those who think alike should be able to send to congress one or more members who will represent their particular brand of policy.

An extreme suggestion of the same sort is that we should abandon the geographical basis of congressional representation and substitute one which would reflect occupational, economic and social groupings. By those who accept this kind of argument, any plan to form a third party, or a fourth or a fifth party, is welcomed. They would encourage a labor party, or a farmer party, or a farmer-labor party, or a progressive party, and any other kind. The more the merrier, is their attitude.

All of the advocates of multi-party organization fail to grasp or understand the significant fact that an increase of political parties would virtually paralyze legislative action, were such a movement to reach the stage at which each party could send a few members to congress or to a state legislature. Voting majorities would always depend on coalitions and any legislative measure would require the approval of two or more party groups, or "blocs."

France provides an excellent example of the result to be expected under the bloc system. The instability of French cabinets is notorious, and it is attributable largely to the numerous small parties and their constantly shifting alignments. The working majority of today may be a hopeless split by tomorrow. Such a situation is ideal for political "log-rolling" and the legislative process becomes a matter of political buying and selling. Each bloc has its price, not in crude, cold cash, but in concessions and favors, and if there are a dozen or twenty such factions, the political horse-trading expands to enormous proportions. But governmental efficiency declines at the same time toward zero.

The idea that labor, or the farmers, or any other group, needs a political party rests on a naive, but also a perverted conception of the governmental purpose. This conception is that that government exists to do favors for labor or the farmers or some other group. Hence, the surest way of getting what is due is to organize a party, wangle enough lesislative seats to be in a position to bargain, and then proceed to pay off.

Unfortunately, too much of what has happened in the history of American politics, provides support for such a view of the purposes of the government. We have never had an adequate sense of party responsibility, and our procedure of public administration by parties has always had altogether too much of the spirit of pay-off in it.

We really have no need for more than two parties, provided they be good ones. We do have a decided need for definite, clear-cut, contrasting principles of government embedded in the respective party platforms. Above all, our greatest need is for conscientious adherence to the platforms. But in order to have this result, it is necessary that our political parties put more honesty into their platforms.

As it is, no one heeds or remembers the platform, because they are not intended to express definite principles of government. The party objective is not that of demonstrating the superiority of its philosophy of government. Rather, it is the spoils of office. Parties are willing to throw overboard everything, including honor and principles, to get and keep these spoils. Our need is not for more, but rather for better, parties in our political life.

Your Health

—By DR. HERMAN BUNDESEN

THERE are certain regions in India known as stone areas. Not because the land is stony, but because a large number of the people suffer from kidney stones.

It was believed that this condition was due to a lack of something in the diet. A few years ago scientists brought forth evidence that kidney stones, formed when there was not enough vitamin A in the diet.

A test is made of the eyes for night blindness. When persons have night blindness they lack vitamin A. The remarkable fact is that tests made of 25 persons with kindey stones showed that 24 of them had a deficiency of this vitamin.

In a group studied by Dr. Charles C. Higgins, Cleveland, almost three-quarters of those with kidney stones showed a vitamin A deficiency.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

That Word "Front."

The front of a house means literally the forehead of the house!

Derived from the Latin "frons, frontis," the word means "the brow," the part of the face above the eyes.

It is easily comprehensible, knowing as we do the tricks of language, that the whole should have been named for the part, and "front" soon come to indicate the whole face. What is interesting, however, is its extension in meaning to take in the part or surface of anything directed forward. The "front" of anything, and from that such phrases as "in front of" exist not because of any relationship with the term "fore" or "foremost" as opposed to "back" or "rear," but from its actual meaning of "forehead." This line of Pope takes us back to its original significance:

"Bless'd with his father's front, his mother's tongue."

Timely Editorial

They Probably Want It.

The people want a reorganization bill, says the President at his latest press conference, and he adds they do not want to wait another forty years for changes that will make the governmental machinery work more efficiently.

The chances are that both these assumptions are correct. What the people want of course is anybody's guess; but from such expressions as were had from them a few months ago, many of the people don't want the kind of reorganization Mr. Roosevelt wants. That is the real point.

There would be—as there has been—sharp difference of opinion about a reorganization so efficient that one department of the government, headed by a single person, virtually could run the whole business. People simply are peculiar on matters of that kind. In America a lot of them seem to be built that way, and they won't reorganize themselves. Yet when the safe, properly balanced and also efficient reorganization plan is worked out, they will be for it—strange creatures that they are.—Kansas City Times.

First Home.

Three rooms we have, my love and I,
They are a haven, dear,
And no great shining house that we Might build some distant year,

I know would be more loved or prized.
Here early wedded days
We spend content . . . more than bright gems
To me his words of praise.

More than all else, I know he finds
The home I made . . . the cheer
Of it, our comradeship, our dreams,
This brings us very near.

No palace we may ever own,
If life brings wealth's acclaim,
Could be more cherished than this home
To which, just wed, we came.

Police Line-up for Negligent Parents?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

"ONE OUT OF EVERY SIX CRIMINALS ARRESTED IN 1937 WAS UNDER 21 YEARS OLD. THEIR CRIMES INCLUDED MURDER, ROBBERY, ASSAULT, BURGLARY. THE BEST REMEDY FOR SUCH A SITUATION IS PARENTAL CARE—HOME ENVIRONMENT."
—Major W. H. Drane Lester—"G" Man, F. B. I.

* * * * *

DID you ever watch a police "line-up"? Ever see lanky, pimply youngsters, still in the pin-feather stage, come shambling into the Kleig light glare . . . stand, shuddering or swaggering . . . blubbering or snarling like young wolves . . . facing a darkness pin-pricked with watchful eyes? If you have, you'll never forget it. And you'll go away with a new horror and wonder in your heart.

Sure—you'd heard of bad youngsters. But you'd never have suspected they were like this. Why these are just kids, Babies!

Yet, grim as this sight is, there's another that's worse. And that's the army of unfit, neglectful or lawless parents who sent these youngsters into that line-up. Mothers who gad the streets or strut their stuff in the bright lights, while their children play in back alleys—or band into hoodlum gangs. Fathers who loll on drug store corners or in pool halls, with never a thought of their families.

WHY HAS AMERICA SUCH AN APPALLING RATE OF YOUNG CRIMINALS?

BECAUSE IT HAS SUCH AN APPALLING NUMBER OF NEGLIGENT PARENTS—AND VICIOUSLY SENTIMENTAL CITIZENS WHO DO NOTHING ABOUT IT!

"Mother Love" — so called — is responsible for endless juvenile delinquency. The cruelest, laziest, most nit witted mother can blubber her way out of practically any juvenile mess. But ten years later, you and I will have to pay her baby-bandit's bills in some penitentiary or reform school. Well, we asked for it. And, at worst, it only nicks our pocketbooks.

BUT HOW ABOUT THE YOUNGSTER?

Should he alone be forced to pay the price of our selfishness, stupidity and spinelessness? We have stringent laws to protect our groves and orchards, our pigs and cows and sheep.

But how much protection do we give your children in their plastic years?

I am a mother. For 35 years I have worked with children, other mothers, and representatives of the law. And I'm telling you—

NO UNION IN AMERICA WOULD ACCEPT A WORKER WHO HAD AS LITTLE KNOWLEDGE OF HIS CRAFT AND WAS AS NEGLIGENT IN ITS PERFORMANCE AS THE AVERAGE MOTHER.

Nor am I now referring to obviously "bad" mothers. Many a leader in church, club and society is included in this indictment. Due to our cockeyed notion that a knowledge of child needs will arrive miraculously and simultaneously with birth — and that "mother intuition" is a substitute for scientific training — motherhood remains the most inept and unsuccessful profession on earth.

AMERICA'S JUVENILE "LINE-UP" IS THE MOST SHAMEFUL INDICTMENT OF WOMANHOOD EVER SEEN IN ANY NATION.

For many years Mexico had a law which it ruthlessly enforced: If a minor child was caught in a crime or misdemeanor, its parents were also haled into court—AND GIVEN THE BRUNT OF THE PUNISHMENT.

It's a pity we can't copy our southern neighbors. A police line-up for neglectful parents would do more to stop the juvenile crime wave than a thousand laws and sermons. It might, of course, be tough on the night clubs, bridge tables and golf courses where Mom and Dad now seek relief from their arduous duties—BUT IT WOULD CERTAINLY PUT A CRIMP IN OUR PENAL BUDGETS.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Although I admire Walt Disney more than any man in Hollywood I decided not to attend his party at Music Hall the other day. It was quite an affair and I knew beforehand that it probably would be the most important press reception of the year.

But attending parties for Disney nowadays is like going to Gettysburg to hear Roosevelt make a July 4th address. I mean if you are lucky you may glimpse the great man at a distance, but with everybody else having the same idea you'd never get closer than 100 yards.

And that's how the Disney reception turned out. Some 300 writers, celebrities, and friends of Mr. W. G. Van Schmus, who was Disney's host, crowded into the luxurious reception rooms above Music Hall. Herbert Bayard Swope was there. J. P. McAvoy, the writer, was there. License Commissioner Moss, the man who killed burlesque on Broadway, was there. One could fill a column with names of the great and the near-great who crowded in to see Disney.

* * *

LATER, that is to say about 9 p. m., a colleague of mine came bounding into the office with the cry: "Well, I saw Disney. I almost got within 20 feet of him." He then proceeded to narrate an interesting eye-witness account of all that had transpired. Disney himself wore a double-breasted suit with a flower in his lapel, tie, handkerchief, and socks to match. It is his opinion that the creator of Snow White, while definitely friendly, is a little on the retiring side, a little shy, a little confused by the hubbub his presence always seems to create.

He was, naturally, monopolized by the celebrities, who claimed him for their own, so that one had literally to thrust one's presence upon him if one wished to avoid being left to flounder in the welter of party-goers who descended upon Music Hall for the fete. For at no time was Mr. Disney permitted to mingle freely with his guests. Most of the time he was hemmed against a wall, like a white whale on exhibition for the edification of the mob. And I fancy his paw is still bruised and his larynx still strained from clasping anonymous hands and murmuring over and over, though always politely, "I'm so glad to know you."

* * *

FROM what my friend tells me of the entertainment I think Mr. Van Schmus deserves more than an accolade. All during the party a continuous succession of Disney films was projected upon a screen in an adjacent room. And if one grew weary of sandwiches and cocktails, of which there was an extravagant selection, you could always lose yourself in the enchantment of Micky Mouse.

And so it is probable that I outsmarted myself by remaining away from Mr. Disney's party. I wouldn't have stood a Chinaman's chance of really talking with him, I know. But at least I could have caught up on some of my Disney movies. And that would have made it unanimous. For I am probably the only man in New York who never saw "Three Little Pigs."

CLOTHING BILL IN NORTH LESS THAN IN SOUTH

Difference of 25 Per Cent Is Shown in Low Income Group, Department Reports.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The department of agriculture's nationwide consumer purchase survey has turned up a lot of startling facts, but none more paradoxical than this:

Southern villagers spend 25 per cent more for clothing than do northern villagers.

A family-living study in 33 villages in Georgia, Mississippi, North and South Carolina showed 2,083 husbands averaged $56 a year each for clothes and their wives $57.

A similar study including 2,877 families in 46 villages in Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin disclosed the husbands spend an average of $38 and the wives $42 a year for clothing.

None on Relief Rolls.

The survey included only non-relief white families for 12 months in the 1935-36 period. The figures were given by the families themselves in personal interviews with department representatives.

In the lower income group — $500 to $3,000 — husbands and wives spent virtually the same for clothing When the family income reached $5,000 or more expenditures for clothing took a big jump. For husbands it averaged $180 and for wives $232 a year.

In both the north and the south husband and wives spent more for underwear and hose than they did for coats and other wraps. For the husband the average was $6 and for wives $12. Husbands spent $26 for suits and wives $16 for dresses.

Same Spent For Shoes.

The husbands average $3 a year for hats and the wives $4. Shoes cost husbands and wives each an average of $9 a year.

The survey bore out the contention of most fathers that it costs more to clothe daughters than sons. On the whole, fathers spent more for clothing than their grown sons, but grown daughters spent more than their mothers.

In the $2,000 to $3,000 a year income group, sons spent an average of $73 a year for clothing; husbands, $77; wives, $80 and daughters, $95. The husband earning $5,000 or more a year spent an average of $180 for clothing for himself, $160 for his son, $232 for his wife and $332 for his grown daughter.

School Board Chooses 'Johnny Appleseed'—Drive to Put Bond Issue Over Opens.

The help of teachers will be solicited at a meeting Friday afternoon at John Simpson Junior high school where Supt. Miller will explain the program which calls for the expenditure of $1,000,000 for two new junior high buildings and improvements and additions to others. The remaining $450,000 needed for the program is being sought in PWA funds.

Motion pictures of crowded and hazardous conditions at the John Simpson and Hedges schools were shown to the group last night by Supt. Miller.

Arlin, president of the board, pointed out that the bond issue would boost the city's school debt to $1,100,000, or considerably less than the school indebtedness in 1930. He added that $24,000 of the present $550,000 debt will be retired this year and $60,000 more in 1939.

Arlin read a letter from Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, urging installation of modern plumbing equipment in a number of the city's school buildings as a safeguard for pupils' health.

"In several of the buildings, the plumbing equipment is of obsolete type and shows improper installation according to present-day standards," the letter said. "Further, this equipment gives evidence of faulty operation, and these conditions offer a definite health hazard to pupils."

Improvement of the equipment in the older buildings is included in the building plan.

LIFER HOPEFUL AFTER 38 YEARS

Ohio Penitentiary's Oldest Prisoner Believes He'll Be Freed Sometime.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Chauncey Lyons, Ohio penitentiary's oldest prisoner, refuses to accept as final his life sentence and hopes that some day he may be free. He was sentenced in 1900 from Fairfield county for rape.

He has appeared before the board of pardons seven times. On six occasions the case was continued for reconsideration. The last time his case was continued until the expiration of sentence, which means until his death.

Despite the dark outlook Lyons says:

"I want to get out as badly as the man who came in here yesterday," and the way in which he says it convinces you he is a long way from giving up his dream of freedom.

Because of the crime for which he was convicted, Lyons is not a "sympathetic" subject. Yet Lyons denies his guilt and William Metzger of Carroll, O., who arrested him, wrote a letter to the board of parole in 1931 in which he stated:

"I think this was a put up job on the part of the family. I do not think he was guilty of the charge."

Meantime, both the trial judge, Charles W. McCleery, and the state's attorney who prosecuted Lyons have died.

Typical pleas made by Lyons are to be found in the files of the chief record clerk. One of them, written May 2, 1928, reads:

'I am now over 60 years of age and would appreciate very much to be permitted to spend the rest of my days with my relatives."

Another, written at Christmas time, asked:

"Won't you do something for me at this time of the year when so many people are made happy by receiving the unexpected?"

For the past 11 years Lyons has been threatened with blindness. Now, at 73, he sees only shadows. He has been assigned to the prison hospital

GETS LIFE TERM

'Coffin' Murder Suspect Pleads Guilty; Immediately Sentenced.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—(AP)—John F. Bathelt, 26, of New York, today pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the "cement coffin" slaying of Charles Morris, New York race track follower, and was sentenced by Judge Thomas Hammond to life imprisonment in a court session lasting only 10 minutes.

Inventors' Chief Here Tomorrow to Talk to Kiwanis

Albert G. Burns, Almeda, Calif., president of the National Inventors' congress, will address members of the Kiwanis club Thursday at their luncheon meeting at Westbrook Country club.

Burns, who is in Ohio completing arrangements for a five-day convention of inventors which will be held July 18 to 22 in Cincinnati, will speak on "New Inventions—the Way Out."

Burns will deal with the development of new ideas instead of relief legislation to solve the economic problems of the nation. His organization claims more new inventions have been developed during the past year than any other period in history.

Inventors, manufacturers and others interested in the subject have been invited to attend the meeting.

FARMERS SAVE PHEASANT EGGS

Try to Increase Supply of Birds Through Incubators.

BOULDER, Colo.—(AP)—Boulder county farmers are trying to increase the supply of pheasants with the hope that soon there may be enough of the birds to justify an open season.

Eggs are gathered from abandoned pheasant nests in farm fields. These eggs are sent to a central hatchery and the hatched birds are released within the county. Farmers reported there has been a heavy loss of eggs because pheasant hens abandon their nests when frightened.

EMPIRE LINK FORGED

CANBERRA —(U.P.)— Preparations are now being made to set up the first short-wave station to be operated by the Defence Department of Australia. Through it the Australian navy will be able to communicate direct with the British admiralty and with British ships all over the world.

SECOND CUT-OFF SUIT ON FILE

Property Owner on Route 42 Refuses State's Offer for Right-of-Way.

A second suit involving right-of way easements for the cut-off on route 42 at Windsor had been filed in common pleas court today by a property owner who refused to accept the amount offered by the state highway department.

Th action was brought by James W. McMillen of Mifflin township, who asserts in his petition that the $56 offered by the state highway department is insuficient to cover damages to his property.

A similar action was filed two days ago by Anton Reiser, jr., who was offered $61 for an easement.

The suits threaten further delay in completion of the cut-off paving. Work on the project was started four years ago and has been delayed repeatedly because of disputes over the right-of-way and failure to obtain federal funds.

The state highway department, however, accepted bids on the paving two weeks ago when it appeared that right-of-way difficulties had been settled.

SCOFFS AT DEM PRIMARY SPLIT

Kallmerten Claims Anyone Who Talks About It Must Be 'Seeing Ghosts.'

for myself I am not asking any Democrat to endorse either candidate."

Kallmerten asserted that if Sawyer were on Davey's place right now, he would be just as strong for him as he is now for Davey.

"If Mr. Sawyer is nominated," he continued, "I'll be for him 100 per cent. I am not fighting with friends or foes in this primary, and no good Democrat would."

Citing reasons for his support of Davey, Kallmerten said: "I have been closely associated with him since he has been governor and he has done much for the people of Richland county. He has been more than generous with jobs that I have been able to get for the people of my county and over the state. He has gone along with me in placing business with the industries of my county and I ask you why I should not be for him? Why should the people of Richland county not be for Governor Davey under the circumstances?"

Concluding his statement, a written one, Kallmerten said "as chairman I was given a job to do and I believe I have done it to the entire satisfaction of my committee and the people of Richland county," and added "Furthermore, I think Governor Davey is today one of the outstanding figures in our national political life."

Kallmerten said that up to the present time, no formal Davey organization had been set up in Richland county.

"When there is, I expect I'll be the head of it," he added.

FRIENDS HONOR TWO AT SHOWER PARTIES

Mrs. Jack Yoha Entertains for Mrs. Forrest Pittinger While Miss Jo Marie Mecurio Fetes Mrs. Alfred Mecurio.

TWO RECENT BRIDES were feted last night at showers given in their honor by their friends. Mrs. Forrest Pittinger was entertained at a miscellaneous shower and Mrs. Alfred Mecurio was given a linen shower.

Hearts and cootie were played at the shower given last night by Mrs. Jack Yoha, 133 West Second street, in honor of Mrs. Pittinger. Mrs. Pittinger, who was formerly Miss Betty Craig, was married June 26.

Luncheon was served to the seven guests at small tables centered with bouquets of sweet peas. A yellow color scheme was carried out in the decorations. Miss Evadene Barber won the prize.

* * *

Miss Joe Marie Mecurio entertained at the family home on South Foster street last night with a linen shower given in honor of Mrs. Mecurio. Mrs. Mecurio, the former Miss Maxine Glaze, was a bride of July 2. JoAnn Fusco led the honoree to her gifts which were arranged under a large sprinkling can suspended from the wall.

During the evening prizes were won at bunco by Mrs. George Maier and Mrs. Albert Cosinza. These awards were given to the recent bride. The hostess presented the honoree with a guest prize of linen.

A two-course luncheon was then served at four small tables decorated with garden flowers. The favors and color scheme were in pink and blue.

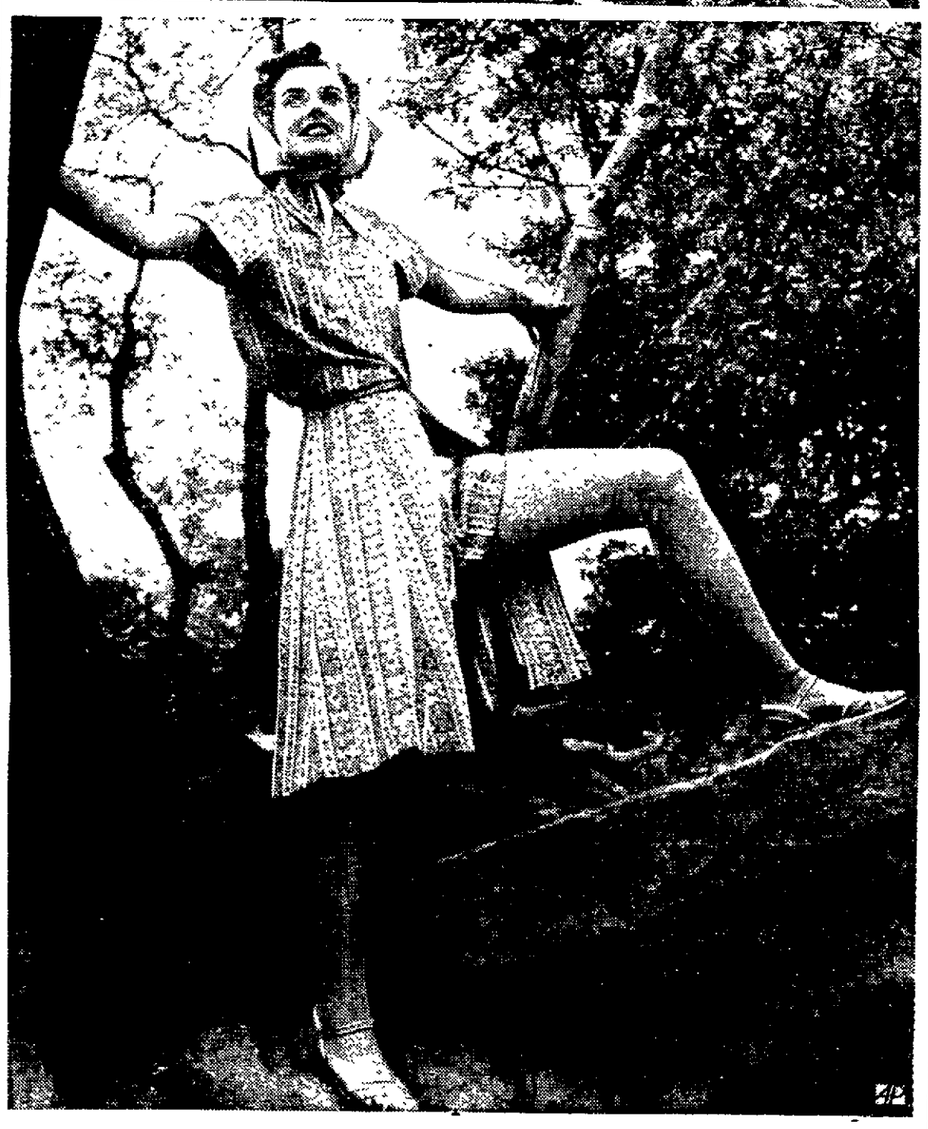
Appropriate Clothes Spell Vacation Pleasure

Here is a heart-splashed swim suit that hints at romance on the beach. It is made of one of the season's new cottons and its color scheme is blue and white. The coat is suit-length.

Adelaide Kerr, Associated Press fashion editor, indorses this smart suit in an article in which she details some commandments for vacation chic. Among other things she emphasizes the importance of play clothes appropriate for the activities in which the vacationist will participate. Another of her commandments stresses the value of the various washable fabrics now shown for sports, daytime and evening clothes.



Here is a three-piece playsuit for those lazy days in the country. It links a tailored tuck-in shirt, shorts and front-buttoned skirt—all made of rayon crepe printed in blue, rose and wood-brown floral stripes. The braid sandals are in the same colors.

WOODEN CENTERPIECE.

A wooden salad bowl of the old-fashioned chopping variety makes an attractive center piece for the party if it is filled with assorted appetizers. Surround the bowl with flowers or greenery.

FETE RECENT BRIDE AT AFTERNOON TEA

Miss Katherine Hien Hostess at Women's Club; Mrs. Ruhland D. Isaly Gives Bridge Party For Mrs. C. R. Hien.

MRS. CLARENCE R. HIEN, the former Miss Mary Elizabeth Walker, who was a bride of mid-June, has been guest of honor at two parties given this week. Yesterday afternoon her sister-in-law, Miss Katherine Hien, entertained for her at a tea at the Women's Club.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Ruhland D. Isaly. There were 25 guests present for the affair. The tea table was decorated with a centerpiece of garden flowers including delphinium and lilies.

Monday evening Mrs. Isaly gave a pantry shelf shower for Mrs. Hien at her home, 685 Woodhill road. The gifts were all arranged in a large basket decorated with cellophane and ribbons and then presented to the honoree.

The 16 guests played bridge at four tables centered with bowls of garden flowers. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Lloyd Brown, Mrs. Earl Shaub and Mrs. Louis Wenger.

Mrs. Hien, who formerly lived in Bowling Green, was a teacher at Mansfield Senior high school before her marriage to Dr. Hien. Several other parties are being planned for the bride in the near future.

Members of the Rotary club had luncheon at the Ideal Laundry Tuesday and later were conducted through the place by the proprietor, C. K. Moles.

Local women who have been named to serve on committees at the Lakeside Federation of Women's clubs annual meeting at Lakeside Wednesday and Thursday are: Mrs. R. P. Sharick, chairman of the luncheon program for Thursday, and Mrs. John E. Wise and Mrs. H. F. Murray, members of the registration committee.

USE SHAWLS

In a new gymnastic exercise in Moscow, Russia, the girls use shawls.

Mrs. Courtney Hostess To Chi Sigma Members

A social meeting was held last night at the home of Mrs. John Courtney, 26 Highland avenue, by members of Chi Sigma sorority. Mrs. Courtney was assisted by Miss Mary Butler, chairman of the committee, Miss Dorothy Crawford, Miss Betty Hammel, Mrs. Clifford Heaton and Mrs. E. J. Houston. The affair was a dessert party and games were played during the evening.

Prizes were awarded to each of the members present during the evening of games. The tables were decorated with bubble bowls of nasturtiums, and garden flowers were used throughout the rooms. The next regular meeting will be held July 19 in the club rooms of the Bird building.

Linnaeus Garden Club Has Luncheon Meeting

Mrs. R. J. Hammer, Woodland, entertained members of the Linnaeus Garden club at a 1 o'clock luncheon yesterday. Luncheon was served at small tables decorated with sweet peas. Mrs. C. D. Sherrard was a guest.

"An Old-Fashioned Garden" was the subject of a paper presented by Mrs. H. M. Armstrong. The next meeting will be July 26 at the home of Mrs. K. E. Buhr, 3 Glenbeck lane.

CLASS PICNIC.

There were 40 members and guests present yesterday for the picnic supper of the Love and Friendship class of the Mayflower Congregational church which was held at South park. The evening was spent socially in games and contests. The next meeting will be another picnic Aug. 9 at the same place.

THEY'RE THE BERRIES.

PARIS—(AP)—Berried boutonnieres for sports and tailored suits consist of three cherries made of shiny red leather. They hang in the midst of green leather leaves, from a twig-like top. The twig fits into the buttonhole, and there you are.
